Winnsboro Lady Dies In Greenville Hospital.

Mrs. Maud Ives Douglass, wife of the late Dr. John W. Douglass, Sr., died Thursday afternoon, August 7, in a Greenville hospital following an illness of 19 months.

The daughter of the late Norman Mackey and Eugenia Carter Ives, she was born in Lake City, Fla. She was married to Dr. John W. Douglass of Fairfield county and the family lived in Winnsboro for many years, moving to Greenville in 1939. Dr. Douglass died in January, 1951, and a son, Eugene, died in 1938.

Mrs. Douglass is survived by one son, Dr. John W. Douglass, Jr., and one daughter, Miss Maud Douglass, both of Greenville.

Funeral services, conducted by the Rev. C. B. Lucas, a former rector here, and Dr. W. A. Kennedy of Blackstock, were held Saturday afternoon from St. John's Episcopal church in Winnsboro and interment was in the New Hope ARP cemetery.

Harold Douglass and J. C. Fant of Winnsboro were among those serving as active pallbearers.
