W. L. DOUGLASS DEAD

An Honored Citizen of Lauderdale Passes Away

Mr. William L. Douglass, an honored and widely known citizen of Lauderdale, died at his home in Centre Star in the early hours on Tuesday morning, the 16th instant. Eq. Douglass had been in declining health for more than a year past, and several weeks ago suffered an attack from the grip, which, with the added weight of years, was more than his enfeebled condition could withstand, and he quietly and peacefully yielded to the grim reaper and "fell on sleep." Eq. Douglass was born in Lauderdale 71 years ago, and lived in his native county nearly all his life. In the death of this good man Lauderdale has lost one of her most highly honored and respected citizens. A good man has gone to his reward.

Mr. Douglass leaves a large circle of kinsmen. His wife passed away some years ago, but he is survived by seven children, four daughters and three sons: Mrs. W. I. Ingraham, of Florence; Mrs. Andrew Jackson, of Centre Star; Mrs. Minnie Taylor, of Rock Hill, Texas; Miss Gertrude Douglass, and Messrs. Robert D., Wm. L., and Gerald Douglass. He also leaves three brothers and four sisters, the majority of whom live in distant sections of the country.

SAD DEATH.

Mrs. W. L. Douglass Suddenly Passes Away.

Mrs. Wm. L. Douglass of Centre Star died suddenly in a carriage on Tuesday afternoon last, while coming from the L. and N. depot up town to stop with relatives. In company with her husband, W. L. Douglass, Esq., one of the leading citizens of Centre Star, she had gone last Saturday to Nashville to undergo special surgical treatment. They were assured by the doctors that the case was beyond the power of surgery to relieve and that she was in a critical condition. They came from Nashville Tuesday, and, as stated above, in coming up town from the depot, she suddenly expired. The sad cortege was taken to the home of Mr. John Anderson, and thence, on Wednesday, the body was taken to Centre Star and interred in the family cemetery. Mrs. Douglass was a daughter of the late Abram Douglass of Mississippi, and was a most excellent lady, whose departure will be sincerely mourned by a large circle of friends. Her husband and seven children survive her, and to them the sympathies of many friends are extended.

Mr. Andrew Jackson Dead

Mr. Andrew Jackson, the leading merchant of Clarke Star, and one of our best and most widely known citizens, died at his home in that place, on Thursday of last week, of pneumonia, after an illness of about a week. His illness commenced with the grip and developed into the illness that terminated fatally, despite the most anxious attention of his physicians and devoted friends. Mr. Jackson leaves a large family connection and a large circle of friends. His wife, a daughter of the late Wm. L. Douglas, and seven children, five sons and two daughters, survive him. He also leaves four brothers and three sisters, Messrs. J. R., F. E., Frank and W. F. Jackson, and Mrs. Lucy McCarley, Mrs. W. P. Butler and Mrs. Preston Simpson; and one half brother, Mr. Coffey Jackson, of Birmingham, and two half sisters, Mrs. Cunningham, of Athens, and Mrs. Calvin, of Decatur.

Mr. Jackson was in the 49th year of his age; in all his business affairs had been unusually successful, and at the time of his death he had acquired a large estate. He was a man of upright character, and from his youth a faithful member of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, a devoted husband and father, a firm friend and a good citizen. He was a useful man, and will be greatly missed in his community.
