for bur pan

Shot Himself-Funeral Monday P. M., Interment in Winnsboro

0-

11-

er

eđ

he

ha

of

W

3222

en

ir

:d

William Julian Elliott, 71, greatly beloved Columbian, was found dead in an outhouse in the rear of his residence, 4601 Monticello road atabout 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Coroner McCain, after viewing the body declared that he had come with E the body declared that he had come to his death by his own hand and that an inquest was unnecessary. The head, ill health being at the bottom of the tragedy.

Mr. Elliott evidently had been dead about two hours, when found. He had been seen about the house until about 1:30 o'clock, and as he did not come to dinner at 2 o'clock, search was made for him at the homes of neighbors and about the search was made for him at the homes of neighbors and about the premises, with the result stated.

Mr. Elliott was born January 25, 1858 in Winsboro. He was the son of James McKinney and Ann Black Elliott. His father was one of the foremost citizens of Winnsboro in his day, and was regarded as the town philosopher. A no more respected man lived in the town. His associates were Gen. more respected man lived in the town. His associates were Gen. John Bratton, George H. McMaster, Capt. Henry Gaillard, Prof. Means Davis, Capt. Charles Dwight and a number of other men of ante-Confederate war type, high minded and patriotic, who gathered summer of temporal and winter evenings to patriotic, who sathered summer afternoons and winter evenings to discuss the topics of the day. William Julian Elliott as a boy was a frequent listener at the discus-He imbibed bi

Continued on Page Sixteen--Second Section-

THE T

BILLO

Continued from Page One

sions of his elders. He imbibed their principles and was moved by their high and patriotic motives.
In "Reconstruction times" he with such contemporaries as Thomas H. Ketchin, Thomas K. Elliott, W. J. McCarley, James Davis, and these and other brave and daring spirits and other brave and daring spirits preserved the peace and controlled the destinies of Winsboro and Fairfield county for civilization, though the forces of evil outnumbered them three to one.

Was Once Editor.

Mr. Elliott received his education at Mr. Zion Academy in Winns-

Mr. Elliott received his education at Mt. Zion Academy in Winnsboro and was for some years the editor of The Winnsboro News and Herald. He loved his town and county and was saturated with its traditions. To his death he took the livelest interest in the affairs the liveliest interest in the affairs of Fairfield county, and had been often urged to write a history of the county. He did write a number of reminiscenses which were published in the News and Harald and lished in The News and Herald and other newspapers.

other newspapers.

He has heen a resident of Columbia for more than twenty years.

Here he was engaged as the representative of several gin manufacturisms of several gin manufacturisms. sentative of several gin manufac-turing concerns and subsequently as an appraiser of lands for the British-American Mortgage company, being at the same time engaged in the sale of farm lands.

Health Failed.

Health Failed.

Three or four years ago his health failed and he retired to his home on the Monticello road, and while not confined to the house he did not stray far from it.

He was a man who loved company and about him constantly gathered a congenial company who drew upon his memories and knowl-drew upon his memories and knowledge of men and manners. He was a delightful companion, full of aneedotes and kindly references. There was no bitterness in his soul, He was a sincere Christian, believing and practicing forgiveness, without malice and with charity

He was an elder of the Associate Reformed church of Columbia, and was a devoted member of that congregation, in which he was active until his health failed.

Mr. Elliott's father, James Mc-Kinney Elliott was married twice, first to Miss Elizabeth Buchanan, by whom there were two children one of them, Miss Elizabeth Elliott, a teacher of note in Texas for years, and a son, John Elliott, one of the first youthful soldiers from Fairfield to give his life for the Confederacy.

By his father's second marriage to Miss Ann Black there were nine children, seven of whom lived to be adults, but only one of whom, Henry C. Elliott of Winnsboro survives the deceased.

Julian Elliott of be many facility as he was facility to the deceased.

Julian Elliott, as he was familiarly known married Miss Minnie Lee Evans of Fairfield, April 4, 1889. Of this marriage four children are now living; Joseph McKinney, John Evans, and Misses Mary and Elizabeth Elliott all of Columbia. There are three grand-children, John Evans Elliott, Jr., Ann McLees and Mary Elizabeth Ann McLees and Mary Elizabeth Elliott.

an on sen-ment.

I. Izell li the little litt Funeral Monday.

(r. in piadate sisam, Gilstine New nmer Tenry 11 8. Mcrried folat in the when first nsidirs. cases ig at conwhen three day aking obing urors

ing

trad

exan

betw

board paper "M.

associ

dling

swere

didn't.

himsel

"I'd Jones. followe

the hea

reason

fore th

was be

burt ha files ar

interpol

confider

FIND C

Sumter.

WASH load rate

vegetable

Summert

and 59 found to

state Co

nounced

and

RATI

ton.

LaVa

-Con

ing

disindge that

olicigh a irned first ssion. have others out a n the

Ielvin muriggers July. arries a new cough. States ı furolum-

was