

Ellison, Major Robert

According to tradition the Ellisons were of English origin, imigrated to Ireland during a religious persecution probably living in Antrim or Derry. It is assumed that William and his family came in 1744. Robert educated in Pennsylvania as a deputy surveyor; reference Ellison, Fairfield County, South Carolina, by Clara Ellison Erath, Chapter III, Page 18-19

Land Grants

William Ellison received a grant of 300 acres next to land of Robert Ellison on a branch of Little River in 1785. Reference - State Plats Book II, page 102, Archives (Dept. of), Columbia, South Carolina, also, November 1, 1767 - 150 acres on Little River and December 7, 1772 - 400 acres on Watts Branch Jackson Creek.

Homestead and Cemetery

Head branches of Jackson Creek, 4 lots in Town of Winnsboro--1 on Washington Street, others on Congress Street. The old homestead cemetery can be found in a wooded spot off of the highway going from Winnsboro to Newberry, and is about two miles from the Town of Winnsboro. A low wall of large rocks with a ditch beside it surrounds the cemetery, and another more modern wall with an iron gate surrounds the Ellison gravestones. There are many field stone type graves of Kennedy, Moore, Watson, Weldon, and Robertson in the cemetery. Robert Ellison's home was once headquarters for a company of Revolutionary soldiers. The home was destroyed during the war and was rebuilt but was again burned in 1865, during the Confederate War (Page 35 - Descendants of John and Robert Ellison by Clara Ellison Erath). Robert Ellison born County Antrim, Ireland married Elizabeth Potts, November 6, 1772, in Charleston, South Carolina. Tradition says her father was Thomas Potts, (Land Grant 1732-1736; 1759-1770) of Charleston. The Potts family arrived on the Snow Betty Gregg from Belfast. The family listed were Robert Potts--200 acres, John Potts--100 Acres, Elizabeth Potts--100 acres. Their ages were Robert Potts - 58, Sarah Potts - 57 (Land Grant 1732-1736), John Potts - 21 (Land Grant 1767, 1768, 1769), and Elizabeth Potts - 15, deceased in 1774, Robert Potts -14, considered a minor.

Organized Company

During the Revolutionary War, Robert Ellison organized a company of which he was Captain under General Moultrie and was promoted to Major.

Mt. Zion Society

The Mount Zion Society was formed. Its object was to promote education of the youth and build a school in the Camden District. It was chartered in 1777 with John Winn as President and Robert Ellison and William Strother as wardens. A school 1 1/2 stories was built. It was a log cabin. Copies of the minutes of the Mount Zion Society dated 1783 can be found. Tradition says Robert Ellison rode to Rowan, North Carolina, to persuade Thomas H. McCaule to be its President. It began with a membership of 58.

When Robert Ellison was captured by the British his wife, alone and unprotected with 3 children, was molested by the Tories, who tore her hair out by the roots and burned her home. She, upon little pack horses, with Newry, her servant, and her little ones left for Charleston hoping to find protection in her relatives there. Newry persuades his wife and children and other servants Londonderry and Belfast to follow him and serve the family at camps. After reaching Charleston, Elizabeth Potts hired out these servants for her support.

Robert Ellison is mentioned when he was elected with others a delegate from St. David's Parish to a convention in Columbia on the second Monday in May, 1790. This convention met and a new constitution was adopted on June third. It gave the counties of Marlborough, Chesterfield, Darlington, Williamsburg, Clarendon, Sumter, Kershaw two votes and touched Chester and Fairfield counties. This district was divided after the Revolution into three parts known as Chesterfield, Marlborough, and Darlington, (Bishop Gregg's History of Old Cheraw - page 448). He was returned a senator, (Page 450-451), elected county court judge from Darlington, (Page 42), and appointed by legislature as Col. of the 38th Regiment of Militia, (Page 455-457).

Elizabeth and the British Commander

When Robert Ellison was taken prisoner by the British, he was confined in one of the vaults under the post office building with Col. Hayne, (who was later hanged) and was offered release if he would take this oath which he refused. He has then confined on a British prison ship in the harbor of Charleston. Elizabeth (Potts) Ellison reached Charleston with her children, ^{and servants, Londonderry, Belfast and Newry} interviewed the British commander and pleaded that as he had her husband in confinement and her property had been destroyed by Tories, he ought to issue rations for her and her children. He did. Robert Ellison was sent to Dry Tortugas.
