Suzanne,

I am forwarding our correspondence to the computer upstairs for putting on the research list.

I attach here some files I have on my desktop. I don't know if the Hawthorne materials are new to you, but think someone sent them to me in previous correspondence with me on the family, so probably they are. I found the York County item in one of their older genealogical society newsletters. I have inserted copies of these into the Hawthorne files recently.

As you will see from the article I wrote on the Hawthorne-Brown cabin, I have been involved in trying to find a way to remove the cabin from its original location since Mr. Brown is not inclined to put resources into the recovery of the fast-decaying structure. Two years ago, I had the project on the front burner, but have experienced slowdown with problems I have in managing the museum on a single staff status with a tiny county-supported budget. Roping in enough able bodied volunteers to try to help reestablish a project to move it is also a problem. Other issues in museum programming eclipsed my energies and I had to back off my fervor temporarily.

Mrs. Midge Novotny of Illinois has been very interested in getting the project back on a front burner and I promised her that I would begin looking into possibilities after the traveling Smithsonian Museum project I had here left in June.

Midge has donated some funds which are kept in an account with the county finance officer and is interested in further helping with funding the project if there is evidence of its taking form. I have attached here also the addresses of Paul Price and Jessie Herndon, who are also descendants interested in the plight of the ancestral cabin. You may want to contact each of them in your quest for information on your Hawthornes.

At the time, there are no grants out there that would apply to this type of project and I have heard that Mr. Brown is a bit peeved at me for having slowed down on the project. He spent some time cleaning out the trash in the house last year in hopes that we were moving forward. Even the county government was helpful in putting a large dumpster in front of the house for the refuse. He also bulldozed a bit around the exterior where rampant growth was overtaking the house.

I will turn 62 next month and find my physical condition is not conducive to my climbing all over the roof, etc., as I have been known in the past to do (see the articles in the 2010 newsletter on the house and the McCreight log barn that we moved here back in the early 2000s). I would like to brainstorm a way to start this project back up, so hope that contacting descendants such as yourself, we may be able to put a concerted bit of wind in the sails. By the way, the county insurance hired a carpenter to rebuild the damaged log barn after I located replacement logs from a same-vintage disassembled log building.

Dear Pelham Lyles,

Thank you for your reply. I would be interested in your project with the Hawthorn family, although most of what I know I found right there in the Genealogy Room! As for the wills I asked for, I don't have to have them right away, so anytime the volunteers can get around to them would be OK. I'm glad you have the collection back, the museum seems like the right place to have it.

Hi, I am the director of the Fairfield County Museum and received your letter today for information on your ancestors. I was recently able to retrieve the Fairfield County genealogy collection from a private individual who had moved all of the materials to another location to set up a separate genealogy research room. The last of the local DAR volunteers had passed away and Mrs. Malone had the support of one of the DAR families in moving the collection. There was no funding for the maintenance and overhead of the operation and her failing health caused her to have to shut down the operation and allow me to move it back to the county museum. In the past two years, I have relied on a number of volunteers to help with the research, although it is difficult to retain continuity without a full-time central manager for the collection. However, I expect one or two to be in next week who may be able to catch up on requests. In any case, we will contact you as soon as possible.

I see that you have Adam Hawthorn in your request for wills. If you are a descendant of his, I would like to share information with you on a project. I will await hearing from you about this.

Sincerely,
Pelham Lyles

Dear Pelham,

Thank you for sending all that information on the Hawthorn cabin and family. I am descended from Adam Hawthorn Jr. and his daughter Margaret who married James Mooty in 1820. About 1832, they took their five children and went to Georgia, and had four more children in Georgia. That is quite a lot of information you sent and it is all fascinating. I am still reading it and sorting it out. When we were there in 2001, we rode by the Hawthorn-Brown cabin and peered at it through the trees. It looks like it is in need of a lot of help, and I do hope you can save it. I will check back with you after I have read through all the information.

Pelham,

You don't need to apologize. I hadn't gotten back to you either. My husband has been sick and in a nursing home for several weeks, and he passed away just yesterday. After the funeral and when I have gotten myself back together, I will send you the names that I had on my list. I will send you a donation too.

Suzanne,

I want to apologize to you for our not following through with your request for information on your Hawthorne family this summer. We found your letter of inquiry today under the computer. Our microfilm printer for the will, etc. is on its last legs and we cannot print. However, we do have a sizable folder of Hawthorne information and a volunteer will check there to see if we don't already have the wills you want printed out (send me the names again for the digital record). I have been working on the potential moving and renovation of the Hawthorne-Brown early log house and have collected information on the family, including other researchers, if you are interested in getting contacts.

I am attaching what I have on my digital files here and we will follow with looking up other information for you.

twelve months. He served his sentence and returned to his home, when he entered actively into public matters and did a true man's full share in relieving South Carolina of the thieves and robbers who had made South Carolina stench in the nostrils of the nation. He took an active part in all the campaigns, but never held office until 1882, when he was elected county commissioner and at the expiration of his term was reelected. He discharged the duties with intelligence and fairness, giving general satisfaction.

He was an ardent Reformer and in the campaign of 1890 served on the State Executive Committee. In 1892 he was elected a member of the board of directors of the State penitentiary, which position he held until the time of his death. In the campaign just closed he held the position of chairman of the Reform Executive Committee in this county, but favored and worked for reconciliation of the Democratic factions and advocated the election of men to public office who would bring back to the State that peace and unity so much to be desired.

The deceased was a high-minded man with his heart in the right place and a level head, loyal to all of his convictions, true to his word and his friendships, a thoughtful neighbor, a genial, generous companion. The county and State can ill afford the loss of such a man.

- (Rock Hill) Herald, Nov 7, 1894

(Editor's Note: We thank William B. White, Jr. for contributing the above. The obituary is typical of a time period in which lengthy, and laudatory, obituaries were the rule, but note that there is no mention of the deceased's family. From other sources is the following additional information about Robert T. Riggins:

2. R. Elizabeth Riggins, eldest daughter of R. T. and R. N. Riggins m. Nov 7, 1888 to John C. White in Blairsville. (Marriage notice in Yorkville Enquirer.)
3. York District 1850 Census: #55. Joseph K. Riggins, 31, shoemaker, cannot read or write, b. Lancaster Co.; Mary, 23, b. Chester Co.; Robert T. F., 3, b. York County.)
4. The maiden name of Mrs. Robert Riggins was Rachel Naomi Warlick. (William B. White, Jr.)

YORK COUNTY HISTORY AND THE DRAPER MANUSCRIPTS by Elisabeth Whitman Schmidt CALS

Inspired by family tales of pioneer bravery during the American Revolution and in the era of the War of 1812, Lyman Copeland Draper started collecting information about early Kentucky residents as a hobby. His interest quickly diversified to include nearly every aspect of frontier life. From 1836 until his death in 1891, he initiated correspondence, conducted interviews, researched in state archives, visited courthouses, and made plans to publish a series of books. Despite the massive amount of material that his efforts produced, only one volume, King's Mountain and Its Heroes,<sup>3</sup> ever reached print. His collection went with him to the State Historical Society of Wisconsin where he served as an administrator from 1854 until he retired in 1886. Mr. Draper continued to pursue his hobby and the result is an historical treasury of American history. Due to the efforts of the staff of the State Historical Society of Wisconsin, the collection has been divided into fifty units which are now available on microfilm and may be viewed locally at Winthrop University in Rock Hill and at the South Carolina Archives in Columbia. The Draper Manuscripts offer a rich variety of fact and tradition that will inspire researchers to seek out all possible documentation to support the local history laid before them.

Of special interest to York County researchers are the Thomas Sumter Papers which are designated as Series VV and contain twenty four volumes of letters and notes. What started as a search for information about the famous Revolutionary hero, expanded to include a wide range of South Carolina interests. There are a myriad of subjects such as Hill's Iron

Works, Catawba Indians, the 1776 Cherokee Expedition, Susannah Barnett Smart's Recollections plus a great deal of correspondence about early York County families. Accessing the information requires patience as there is no comprehensive index. A Guide to the Draper Manuscripts<sup>4</sup> is available and contains a synopsis of the contents of the various series in the Draper collection. Probably of more value to York County researchers is the Calendar of the Thomas Sumner Papers<sup>5</sup> which gives greater detail about the correspondence and the subject matters covered in the series. Also, page numbers are listed to facilitate locating a specific reference. Do note that this calendar does not serve as an every name index. The most difficult part of the search procedure is to not succumb to the urge to read every page.

An example of the type of information to be found concerning York County families in Series VV is an exchange of letters (vol. II, pp 141-148) between Robert T. Leeper of Massac County, Illinois and Lyman Draper. On May 4th, 1874, Robert T. Leeper responded to an April 4th, 1874 letter from Mr. Draper inquiring about Neel and Leeper ancestors. Robert T. Leeper stated that he was a Grandson of Colonel Thomas Neel and, at the age of 74 "17 December next" was the last survivor of his family. The history of the involvement of the Neel family in the Revolution is outlined. Some information is given about Colonel James Hawthorn who with Moses Shelby, David Johnston, and Robert Leeper, were sons-in-law of Colonel Neel. Leeper family migrations from South Carolina through Kentucky into Arkansas and Illinois are discussed.

Upon receipt of this letter Mr. Draper quickly sent off a list of sixteen questions seeking more details of these York County families to enhance his previously acquired material.

On May 18th, 1874, Robert T. Leeper attempted to answer the questions but regretted that he could not give "more accurate information in regard to the inquiries expounded in your letter". He continued to offer his memories of the family and added that a niece, Jane McDaniel, of Hopkinsville, Kentucky may have more information. The McDaniel reference set Lyman Draper off in another direction in his endless pursuit of the facts and traditions of which his collection was comprised.

Possibly, one of the greatest benefits of the Thomas Sumner Papers to York County researchers is the miscellaneous information contained in the correspondence. Just from a review of the two Leeper letters, we can touch on the subject of education in rural Kentucky, the continued grief expressed by his mother over the fate of the Neel men, and postal facilities in Massac County, Illinois. When compared with actual documentation available to even a casual researcher of this day and age, Robert T. Leeper sometimes had a faulty memory. His great contribution, however, was his description of nineteenth century life and family relationships between trans-appalachian America and South Carolina.

Lyman Copeland Draper and the staff of the State Historical Society of Wisconsin have surely provided future generations with the means to develop a better understanding of our York County heritage.

Papers of the Kerr and Crooks Families, 1801-1923 — The annual report of the South Caroliniana Library Society (located on the Univ. of S. C. campus in Columbia) announces that among its acquisitions in 1994 was a "collection of one thousand, four hundred thirty-eight manuscripts [which] contains correspondence, bills and receipts, legal documents, and other papers relating to the business and family activities of Daniel H. Kerr of Buckhead P.O., Fairfield District, and Thomas Harrison Crooks (1823-1897) and his wife, Annie Elizabeth Green Crooks (1831-1910). Daniel Kerr apparently got his start in life as a clerk for the wealthy and successful Yorkville merchant Robert Latta. A document dated 4 April 1809 attests that Kerr worked in his store "for between four and five years and I believe him to be an honest sober Young Man". . . . ## History of the Brown-Hawthorne House and its Furman Institute Structural Components

The facts about Furman Institute's 14 year operation in Fairfield County (February, 1837 to February 1851) are taken here from a document that was copied from the Furman University Library in Greenville and given to me for our document files here in the Fairfield County Museum. Unfortunately, the volunteer failed to copy the title page containing the author and date of publication. The typewritten paper is called "Furman's Fairfield Days." The bibliography for the paper lists these sources: Records in the Fairfield County Courthouse; Minutes of the Furman Board of Trustees, 1825-1851; Minutes of the Executive Committee, Furman Board of Trustees during the Fairfield period (incomplete); Minutes of the Furman Faculty Meetings during the Fairfield period (incomplete); The Baptist Encyclopaedia, William Cathcart, Everts, 1883; Baptist Beginnings in Education, W. J. McGlothlin, Sunday School Board, 1926; The Life Work of James Clement Furman, H. T. Cook, Alester G. Furman, 1926; Lest We Forget, J. S. Dill, Broadman Press, 1938; Centennial issue, The Baptist Courier, December 8, 1921; History of Fairfield County, Fitz Hugh McMaster, State Pub., 1947; Two Centuries of the First Baptist Church of South Carolina, H. A. Tupper, Woodward and Co., 1889; and "interviews."

The background for development of the Baptist congregations in early Fairfield County history began as early as the 1760s when Philip Mulkey established a nearby church called Congaree, the first Baptist church in the up-country of SC. It was Mulkey's follower Joseph Reese who baptized Richard Furman for whom Furman Institute, later University, was named. In 1833 Furman's son James Clement Furman married Harriet Davis, the daughter of Rev. Jonathan Davis, whose Fairfield County plantation establishment was located in Monticello. In 1820 Rev. Davis had organized Fairfield Church near the spot where Furman Institute would be located in 1831.

In 1825, The State Convention of the Baptist Denomination in SC incorporated the establishment of an academic and theological seminary which opened first in the village of Edgefield. After it failed to thrive, Furman Institute was moved to High Hills of the Santee (present day Stateburg). After five years, the school had failed again, and by 1835, under the influence of Nicholas Hodges, it was decided to move the school to Fairfield. Rev. Jonathan Davis was elected president of Furman's Board of Trustees and obtained 557 acres near Fairfield Baptist Church for the campus.

Fairfield County Deed Book MM, p. 502 shows a plat for the deed (signed March 8, 1836). Fairfield Church is shown in the north central area of the plat just east of the old road from Monticello to Winnsboro. The road and its straightened-out modern representative SC State Highway #213 divides the Furman campus about in half. It shows the easternmost placement of the Faculty Residence, a brick two-story building which still stands and is occupied presently by Herman Mattox. Across the road on the west is located the school structure on a high hill. The first Institute building was a frame structure 120 feet long by 30 to 40 feet wide, and it housed the students, class-rooms, and library. At its opening in February of 1837, there were 50 boarders and 13 local students. Each student was required to work 2 ½ hours per day in the fields under the direction of a farmer and the teachers were expected to go with them to the field.

The principal of the English and Classical School was Professor W. E. Bailey. Leader of the Manual Labor feature was William Davis, assisted by N. W. Hodges. The theological division was started the following year.

Tragically, on May 1, 1837, a fire destroyed the building along with its entire contents, taking the life of a student. Undaunted by this, plans were made to rebuild. By January of 1838 a dozen small one and two-room cabins were erected on the hill in a semi-circle to house the students. They were paid for by individuals and erected around the burned site. A new three storied brick classroom building, assumed to be fire proof, was constructed on the site of the previous building. A quarter of a mile east of this arrangement the brick "teachorage" was built, and it was in this home that the first Mrs. James C. Furman died in 1849. In January of 1838, the theological department was opened with Dr. Hooper in charge and Rev. J. S. McGinnis split his teaching duties between the Classical and Theological departments.

The author of this paper has inserted a crude drawing of a single dormitory cabin, "reconstructed from the description in minutes of the Board of Trustees and that of local citizens who remember seeing them." This single cabin was described as being 18 feet long, 16 feet wide with 9 ft. ceilings. The structures sat one foot above ground (on stone piers), had one door, two windows, and one chimney. The author's drawing suggests that clapboard siding covered the frame buildings.

Following the story, it appears that problems had begun to affect the school already. The manual labor department was plagued with rebellious students who shirked their work. The school operated at a loss, and in 1839 the trustees authorized the sale of all property such as horses, stock, provisions, and all movables except two mules and an ox cart and oxen. This marked the beginning of the abandonment of the classical school and the manual labor feature. Local liquor shops were contributing to the demoralization of older students and there were complaints about the boarding prices charged for students. In 1844 several neighbors petitioned for fences to be repaired and insinuated that the school steward had killed some of their cattle. There was a rapid turn-over of faculty members and administrators, and James Furman was offered $400 a year to divide his teaching time with preaching at nearby Fairfield Baptist Church. Another nineteenth century writer claimed that there was general complaint among the teachers that the boys of Fairfield were only interested in running barefoot and tending to farm animals, and that they were generally "unteachable." By 1841 there was discussion about moving the school to another place in a more "salubrious climate where there was a larger proportion of white people, cheaper living conditions, and a denser Baptist population." The failure of the Columbia to Charlotte railroad to locate a segment or spur closer to Furman and a strained relationship with Mt. Zion Institute in Winnsboro are also given as possible reasons for the decision to close the Institute in Fairfield. By 1850, plans were being made to move to Greenville. Preparations were made for the immediate removal of the school as the expense of moving was only a "little more than $500 since there was not much to move—the library, the furniture, the household goods of the professors, and little besides." By January of 1852, the move was complete.

Additional Historical Facts of Importance to our Community and State

The Hawthorne structure continued to house several generations of family members from the eighteenth through nineteenth centuries. Reverend Eli Alston Wilkes, Jr., a Methodist minister, was raised in this house. The Alston Wilkes Society was founded in 1962 as a non-profit organization dedicated to providing rehabilitative services to adults released from correctional facilities and is the largest statewide agency of its kind providing direct services in the United States. In 1910 Eli Wilkes wrote an autobiography called Echos and Etchings. The first chapter in his book details his boyhood when General Sherman's Union Army marched through Fairfield County in February of 1865. His mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Hawthorne Wilkes, whose husband had died after Gettysburg in 1863, attempted to take her young son to a safer place with relatives in western Fairfield, but the king pin on the carriage broke when they tried to leave. They tried to hide the horse, but the "bummers" of Sherman's army soldiers confiscated it. Later, a soldier set a fire in the middle of the living room, but Mrs. Wilkes gave the Mason's sign of distress and an officer extinguished the fire.

In 1877, Robert Brown bought the property from the Hawthorne heirs and the present landowner, Bobby Brown is his descendant. He was raised by his widowed mother in the house until she moved out into a newer nearby structure a dozen years ago. The house has been vacant ever since and Mrs. Brown died last year.

In 1851 the State Convention of the Baptist Denomination sold to John R. Shurley of Fairfield District 317 acres of land on which the school building and cabins were located. Shurley had been operating another boarding school named Shurley Institute in the area and perhaps may have contemplated expanding with the acquisition of the Furman facility. However, more controversy erupted with the Fairfield Baptist congregation around arguments about some of the institute property. Rev. Jonathan Davis died in 1855 and the quarrels increased until his death until someone burned down the church, destroying all the church records. Members organized the First Baptist Church and moved to Winnsboro. Fairfield Church went virtually out of existence. It appears that the neighborhood had "gone to pot", all in the advancing wake of the difficult war years to come.

Brown-Hawthorne House Addition

Furman barracks addition to Hawthorne log house (in shade on the right).

The author of this paper writes that "people of the community bought up the cabins and some claim today that the sills of their present homes are laid on material taken from the cabins." Sometime after Furman Institute's departure in January, 1852, it is said that a descendant of Adam or James Hawthorne dismantled one or more of these dormitory barracks and attached a longitudinal addition to a log house that still stands less than  $\frac{3}{4}$  of a mile west of the Furman campus. The log cabin had been built on a 100-acre tract granted to James H. Adams in 1770 by South Carolina's Royal Governor Greville Montague,

The property was sold to James Hawthorne in 1771 and shortly afterwards, according to Hawthorne family tradition, a "bounty log house" was built in the typical frontier cabin configuration of two rooms and an above sleeping loft. The 18-foot by 25-foot building housed Hawthorne descendants until it was sold in 1877 to Robert Brown, the ancestor of the present owner. Sometime after Furman Institute abandoned the campus in 1852, the Furman barracks addition was attached to the west end of the Hawthorne house.

The above document quotes that the Furman wood frame dormitories or barracks on the campus measured 18 feet long, 16 feet wide with 9 ft. ceilings. The frame barracks addition to the Hawthorne log house measures 18 feet wide and 33 feet long and has two rooms and a sleeping loft or garret under the high pitch of its roof. This second floor room is accessed by a steep staircase and had its own fireplace for heating. The attic lofts of both sections of the house are accessible through a door connecting the two structural components. Each component has its own steep stairwell.

CIVIL WAR LETTER OF S. R. ADKINS

(This Civil War letter is submitted by Billie Faye Drost who also asks that we add William Harvey Merritt to our list of Civil War casualties, KIA. The letter below was addressed to Sarah Adaline Thorn Merritt, who married Joseph Addison Carothers ca 1865. They were living in Mecklenburg County, NC at the time of Sarah's death in 1904.)

Dear Ant

I hardly no what to say to you as I am so dissturbed and fatigt. we are yet in line of battle and has bin ever since the 20 of May. we have very strong fortifocations. wee are in tolerable close quarters with the yanks. our lines are in seventy five yard of them in some places wee have not ha any general engagements for severl days but tho the canonning and sharp shooting is heavey we have suferd severly since wee came to VA. our company and regt has redust alomost one half and wee have bin a fiting and dying in _____ breastwork and building fortifications until I am completely worn out but tho I am thankful that I have come through what I have and have not bin hurt. Otherwise me and brother Jasper has come through and has not in hurt while others have sunk and is now under the clods of the earth and you husband is numbered with them. He did not speake after he was shot. I saw him after he was caired out. He was shot through the sholder and the ball was araging through is hart. He was beryed neare the battle feeld. I did not get anything that he had with him. He had bin serched his knapsack is with _____ I will try and have it taken care of if I can but the blanket he had with him was stolen. I will attend to his business as I promus to do and do the best that I can for you and send it to you. So I will have to close for this time Nothing more but sending my love and respect to you and the family Rite soon if you can direct your letters to Peetersburg

ROBERT T. LEEPER & LYMAN C. DRAPER CORRESPONDENCE Part Four

(Lyman C. Draper began collecting reminiscences of veterans and descendants of veterans of the Revolutionary War when he was fifteen. Eventually he became Secretary of the Historical Society of Wisconsin. One of the many correspondents was Robert T. Leeper who personally knew Col. James Hawthorn, who was also York County's first sheriff and Leeper was a grandson of Col. Thomas Neel of York County. The following was transcribed from microfilm by Ann Burton, 43779 Valley Rd, Decatur, MI 49045-8905, editor of Craig-Links, surname quarterly for Craigs, who has generously shared her work with us. The numbers in parentheses represent the page number in the files.)

(p. 178) Yellville, AR 23 Jun 1875. Robert E. Trimble, son of Robert Trimble says Andrew and Thomas Hawthorne had no children. Trimble says he has 2 sisters living in this county and that one has some family records and papers of Trimble and Hawthorne and he hopes to get some answers for Mr. Draper. This from W. H. Peery, P. M. of Yellville, Rob't E. Trimble at Lead Hill, Boone Co., AR.

(191) Tells of Hawthorne's parents being murdered and that he was stolen off by the Indians and raised. In the war he was wounded twice, once in the thigh and once through the body, the ball entered under the right breast and passed out near the spinal column. . . He was sent by a small escort to the settlement to gain his health; but on the way they were intercepted by a squad of British. His men fled, all but one—the brave Thos. Neal (afterwards his brother in law) who chose to die with him (Col. Hawthorne) rather than desert him in his hour of danger; the two succeeded in beating off the British and made their escape. The men who had fled reported Hawthorne and Neal were both killed; there was great rejoicing when they arrived safely. (193) (more about Hawthorne's and Lacey's adventures in the war) (also 194). (195) After the war he married Mary Neal, daughter of Thos Neal of South Carolina, and sister of Thos. Neal that was with Co. H. during the war. They had born to them 4 children: Andrew Neal, Thos. Neal, Elizabeth and James McCree Hawthorn. They must have lived in SC for some time as my Mother, the third child, could remember when they left home and emigrated to Kentucky and settled at or near what was then called Centerville; he lived at this place until his family were all about of an age, except the youngest son James McCreer, my uncle. Thos. N. completed his study of law at that place under Reason Davige and Matthew Gage, two lawyers of that place. (196) About this time Col. Hawthorn started back to SC and died on the way with influenza. My grandmother and two uncles, Andrew and Thos, came to the country with my father. Grandmother died in AR on White River about 60 yrs of age near a place known as Trimble's Island, White County now; then nothing but an Indian territory with a few white settlers. (thinks James Mc. Hawthorn may have died at New Orleans.) (197) Uncle Andrew and Thos both died without children and there are but 3 of mothers children living, myself and two sisters.

Col. James Hawthorne was about 5' 10" high, well proportioned, weighed 170, light complexion, sandy hair, grey eyes of quick temper, though very prudent toward his officers and men as was quite a favorite with his superiors. I am not aware that he was a professor though he never used profane language. "I'll be burned, being the nearest my mother ever heard him approach profanity. He was a quiet man in his settlement never had any (198) aspirations for civil office nor held any that I am aware. There was nothing remarkable in his character—only he never passed any one of the tribe of Indians that murdered his mother and sisters without dispatching him on the spot. Even after peace was made, The old '76 veterans would frequently meet with their rifles and shoot at a mark for pastime; one occasion there was an Indian came to the party who was a stranger to them all. Grandfather soon found he was one of the tribe he had sworn vengeance against, and sent a ball through his head "What did you do that for" said one of his companions. "I'll be burned if old Black Snake (meaning his gun) wouldn't burst if she didn't go off when she saw one of that tribe." was his cool reply. ... Very truly yours R. E. Trimble.
(Draper sends Trimble a list of questions.)

(204) Lead Hill, (AR) 19 July 1874

Mr. Trimble's sisters live near Big Flat, Baxter Co. One named Yoakum. Says his father may have been reckless in KY and kept his past secret from his children (pp 206, 207 and 208 from pastor of Bethel Church, York Co., SC, S. L. Watson.) Also (209-217), (218) 1 May 1873 S. L. Watson to Draper, Bethel, York Co.
Capt. Neal was a son of Col. Neil. A younger son is buried beside him in our cemetery at Bethel Ch. Another son, a colonel was killed by the Tories at Rocky Mount on Catawba River (also 219-222).

End of that section of VVI having to do with Hawthorne-Neil/Neel/Neal.

Ann Burton, transcriber of this four-part section on the Neels, Hawthornes and Leepers, has also sent us further information on these families from other correspondence with Lyman C. Draper:

11VV. Col. James Hawthorne's father was from Ireland and settled near Charleston. James was the oldest child (two other brothers were probably Robert and Adam). Indians captured the family while father was out scouting. James, his mother and two sisters were captured. The women were killed. James was adopted by Indians (ca 12 years old or younger) for four years. Father found him dressed as Indian. Father died in a river driving horses on a horse drive. James apprenticed himself to a blacksmith. Someone else says that he was raised by Thomas Neil (I believe I have read that Thos. Neil was a blacksmith). Hawthorne went in the war at age 18, wounded twice. Rose from private to colonel. Says after 2nd wound, on the way to recover, attacked by British. "All men fled but trust brother-in-law-to-be Thomas Neil who chose to die with Colonel rather than to desert." They escaped. After the war he married Mary/Polly Neil, daughter of Col. Thomas Neil. They had 3 sons: Andrew, Thomas, James McCreer, and daughter Elizabeth who m. Robert Trimble. His two wounds were at Hanging Rock and Cowpens.

In Draper's section 9VV there is the following statement. "Cornwallis took Mrs. Neil's 40 slaves and she went to Charlotte to plead with Cornwallis to get them back. Said she had mostly daughters at home and they couldn't work the land. He said 'learn your daughters to work! She said, 'well, at least let me have the children as we are very attached to each other."

He said, "Ha! Give you the calves and the cows will come looking for them!" And he dismissed her."

In Draper's section 14VV it is stated that Col. James Hawthorn owned land in Livingston Co., in 1807 but lived in Centreville, Caldwell County, KY in 1809. (Caldwell Co. was formed from Livingston Co. in 1809.) A family of Tates lived near Hawthorne in Centreville and Gen. Edward Lacey and Maj. Charles Miles lived not too far away. Lacey and Hawthorne served together. Lacey came first to Kentucky. Col. Hawthorne's daughter was named Elizabeth. Lacey died in March 1813 and Hawthorne d. in fall before [other sources say he died in 1809]. Hawthorne's sons were Thompson and Andrew. Hawthorne came from Robeson Co., NC and was a "pale white skinned man, flaxen hair." A blacksmith, he had "moderate mental power but generous. . . better follower than leader." His children did badly with one son lynched in Kentucky for breaking and entering.
The End.

THOMAS M. CARROLL SPEAKS AT CLOVER

The only event to disturb the quiet monotony of our town, occurred on the evening of the 31st ultimo [31 May 1878]. On that afternoon people were seen coming in from all directions, for the purpose of hearing an address which had been previously announced, to be delivered by Hon. Thomas M. Carroll, of Pike county, Missouri. By early candle-lighting, quite a crowd had assembled, and with the Clover String Band at their head, marched to the residence at which he was stopping, when after the Band had performed several enlivening airs, Mr. Carroll was called. He responded in an address of about an hour. He commenced by referring to the home of his fathers, which was near this place, and then passed to National politics. He also gave a full history of the origin and objects of the Patrons of Husbandry. Every subject he treated was fully and clearly explained, showing that he is not only well posted on the past history of the government, but has fine conceptions of the policy that should be pursued in the future. Some Western man—he gave no name—with Wade Hampton, would form the Presidential ticket to sweep the county in 1880.

Mr. Carroll's father removed from this country in 1816, going West in search of a goodly land, not stopping until he passed beyond the banks of the great Mississippi. Finally he located in Missouri, where he reared a large family. Mr. Carroll is on a visit to this country to see the graves of his fathers and ascertain if any of his kinsmen are still living. He found many relatives, among them our esteemed townsman, Mr. Zimri Carroll, with whom he spent several days.

-The Yorkville Enquirer, 13 June 1878.

The 1876 York County tax assessment from the County Auditor reveals that the county folks owned 3,728 dogs valued at $19,092. Contrast this with 6,864 sheep and goats valued at $6,864. Or, the value of all stocks of out-of-state companies or corporations (excepting national banks): $19,755. The total taxable property was $4,652,177 of which the largest proportion was real estate, "$3,125, 988. But, why were dogs so heavily taxed?

JAMES JEFFERYS, ESQ. OF YORKVILLE by Louise Pettus

On the 24th of February in 1883 the oldest male resident of the town of Yorkville died. James Jefferys, Esq. had an unusual background. He was born August 6, 1800 of poor parents on the Island of Aldeney in the English channel. The parents moved to Guernsey Island, about 21 miles distant, when Jefferys was still an infant. When he was 12 years of age he was apprenticed to a cabinet maker, Thomas Dews.

Under the contract Dews made with Jefferys parents, Dews would provide room, board and clothing for the boy until he was 18 years of age. During that time Dews was to instruct young Jefferys in "the arts and mysteries" of the cabinet maker's trade. Four years after the contract was made Dews decided to emigrate to the United States. He asked the parents to allow him to bring along his 17-year-old apprentice and they consented.

In 1817 Dews, his wife and children, and James Jefferys landed in Philadelphia. They stayed there for seven months and then moved to New York city for about two years. After that Dews was at Richmond, Va. for two months, then to Petersburg, Va., Raleigh, Salisbury and Lincolnton, N. C.-- never finding a satisfactory situation.

Jefferys' apprenticeship was extended by two years in order to pay his passage over. The apprenticeship expired August 6, 1821. Believing that there was not enough business in Lincolnton to employ both Dews and himself, on his 21st birthday, Jefferys bid Dews goodbye and set out on foot to find employment for himself. His only money was $2 loaned to him by a friend.

Jefferys walked to Providence community in lower Mecklenburg County where he expected to find employment but was disappointed. Again he set out on foot and was at the crossroads at Tirzah Church where a fingerboard pointed in one direction to Yorkville and in another to Chesterville. Jefferys later said that he asked for Divine Guidance and always believed that his prayer directed him to Yorkville.

He arrived in Yorkville on foot in the middle of November 1821. At that time Yorkville had only about 200 people and nearly all of the homes were constructed of logs. The first person he met was Samuel Chambers, one of the leading men of the village. Chambers directed Jefferys to the house of Samuel Wright. Wright invited Jefferys to spend the night and the next morning they made a nine-month contract. Jefferys was to work as cabinet maker and Mr. Wright would furnish him a shop, materials and board. Each was to get one-half of the gross sales.

When the nine-month contract ended Jefferys had enough money to go into business for himself both as a cabinet maker and storekeeper. In 1838 he dropped cabinet making and became one of Yorkville's leading merchants. His store prospered and he accumulated much property in Yorkville.

From 1838 to 1862, he was magistrate and thereafter known as James Jefferys, Esq. (The title of "Esquire" was generally given to any judge, no matter the type of court.) It is estimated that, as magistrate, Jefferys handled at least 2800 local cases and additional state cases in his court. His reputation for fairness was widely known. He kept such meticulous records as magistrate that he was often called upon to settle disputes. According to Jefferys' obituary in the Yorkville Enquirer, his decisions were never questioned.

A pious man, Jefferys was one of the first 8 organizers of the Yorkville Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1829 he organized the first Sunday School in Yorkville. All of his life he was a zealous and active worker for the church.

Jefferys married Elizabeth H. Smith, daughter of Capt. Thomas H. Smith of Yorkville. They had twelve children, eight sons and four daughters.

The name of James Jefferys is not listed among those immigrants to York District who swore allegiance to the United States of America. Perhaps he did and the record is lost. Whatever the case, he was long remembered and respected in Yorkville as one of the town's best and finest citizens.

BANKRUPTCIES OF 1867-1868

One of the post-Civil War's traumas was the lack of an adequate amount of money in circulation. The war had drained the area of most of the gold and silver coins. Confederate paper money, notes and bonds now had no value whatsoever. The Union had issued paper money (Greenbacks) during the war and these were in circulation but pitifully few of them reached the average Southerner.

Probably the most telling sign of the poverty of York County in 1867 was the number of auction sales notices printed in the Yorkville Enquirer. For instance, the November 7, 1867 issue had the following notice from R. H. Glenn, S. Y. D. (Sheriff of York District): "Sheriff's Sales. By virtue of Writs of Fieri Facias, to me directed, will be sold between the legal hours of Sheriff's Sale, on the First Monday in December Next, at York Court House, the following property . . ." There follows more than 70 pieces of property to be auctioned. All of them auctioned because the owners could not pay their property taxes. All notices had the same wording with only the name of the property owner changing. The first one listed was "One tract of land, bounded by lands of Miss M. A. Boyd and others, levied on as the property of J. L. Rataree, at the suit of the State for double taxes."

Descendants of Adam Hawthorn

Generation No. 1

1. ADAM<sup>1</sup> HAWTHORN was born Abt. 1690 in Scotland, and died Abt. 1715 in Ballybay, Monaghan Co., Ireland. He married MARY.

Notes for ADAM HAWTHORN:

Mary A. Kelly <mkelly@cyberbeach.net> provided data on Adam and sons with a change date of January 14, 2003. Has web site at <http://worldconnect.rootsweb.com>.

Per James Holden <holdenj@sbcglobal.net>, Hawthorn is an old Scotch family. The name originated during the war with the Danes, when the Scots fought them from the Hawthorn bush and groves in the mountains.

"The Clans, Septs and Regiments of the Scottish Highlands" by Frank Adams:

Page 576: The MacDonald clan was known as the King of the Isles.

Page 232: The MacDonald (clan Donald) were the Kings of the Isles and Man. Lords of the Isles and Earls of Ross.

[Note: there are 3 other Scottish MacDonald clans but they are small and not connected to the large and powerful clan of the Western Islands]

Notes for MARY:

Assumption based on the names of the children using traditional naming.

Children of ADAM HAWTHORN and MARY are:

2. i. JOHN<sup>2</sup> HAWTHORN, b. 1714, Monaghan (Monaghe) Co., Ireland; d. 1784, Broad River, Fairfield Co., SC.
- ii. ALEXANDER HAWTHORN.
- iii. ROBERT HAWTHORN.

Generation No. 2

2. JOHN<sup>2</sup> HAWTHORN (ADAM<sup>1</sup>) was born 1714 in Monaghan (Monaghe) Co., Ireland, and died 1784 in Broad River, Fairfield Co., SC. He married ELIZABETH CHALMERS 1744 in Ireland.

Notes for JOHN HAWTHORN:

Immigrated from Belfast to Charles Town, S. C. on Tuesday January 5, 1768 with 8 children on the Brigantine "Chichester", William Reed, Master. There were 130 passengers on board. The others were administered to such of the poor Protestants as were of age who lately arrive in her in this province on the encouragement of bounty given by the Act of the General Assembly passed the 25th July 1761 agreeable to the following list Viz. Per the Council Journals of the Royal Governor and/or Lieutenant Governor. Records of the States of the United States, South Carolina EI. 1p, Reel 10 in the Library of Congress. Originals in the S. C. Archives, Columbia, SC 29211. Also, see Charles Town, S. C. Journal 34, pages 1-10. Adam, James and John Hawthorn each owned 100 acres in Craven County recorded 9/6/1768. It is believed that the Hawthorns immigrated to Ireland in an offer of land to Englishmen of Protestant faith. Conjecture has it that they became disenchanted with Ireland due to a famine in the 1740s and English control over the sale of their crops particularly flax and wool. All sons appear on the S.C. Roster of Revolutionary War troops. Two of them, Robert C and Joseph migrated to Georgia, Kentucky and finally to White County, Illinois. Both have DAR headstones in the Enfield, Illinois cemetery.

LDS has DOB as 1713; and DOM as 1744 and that John died Craven, SC.

SC Department of Archives concerning John Hawthorn; 1) Council Journal #34 pp 1-6, persons applying for warrants of survey; 2) Royal Grants, Vol 17, p 386, 100 acres on arm of Broad River June 16, 1768; 3) Royal Grants, Vol 17, p 455, 350 acres on arm of Broad River June 16, 1768; 4) Colonial Plats, Vol 15, p 362, Plat for 350 acres in Craven Co, February 16, 1768; 5) Colonial Plats, Vol 15, p 363, plat for 100 acres in Craven Co April 2, 1768; 6) Kershaw County Wills, Vol 1, Bk A-1, Will dated September 1776 and proved March 1784.

Will of John Hawthorn dated September 9, 1776, proved March 16, 1784 in Craven Co., SC, a planter.

.....I give and dispose of the same in the following manner and form:

1. To my beloved wife, Elizabeth, my house and plantation that I now live upon during her life, and after all my lawful debts is paid, the remainder of my goods and chattels to fall to her to dispose of at her death as she thinks fit, except one cow that I will her to give at her death to my grandson John Hawthorn.
  2. To my daughters Margaret Johnston and Mary Forbes and my sons Adam, James and John Hawthorn, two Pounds each of current money.
  3. To my sons Joseph and Benjamin Hawthorn, 300 acres of land to be laid off or divided at the discretion of my executors.
  4. To my beloved daughter Elizabeth Hawthorn 100 acres of land to her and the heirs of her body of that tract of land I bought from James Ogeliove. I also order Joseph and Benjamin, or those who inherit my land, to pay unto the said Elizabeth Hawthorn upon her marriage day 150 pounds current money.
  5. I also appoint as executors, my three sons James Hawthorn, John Hawthorn and Robert Hawthorn..
- The inventory was signed by Thomas Cameron, John Cameron, William Craig, James Cameron, John Long, Jr. James Hawthorn and John Hawthorn.

Per James Holden, John was raised and married in Scotland, but after his marriage he settled in North Ireland.

Per "Back Tracking the Hawthornes" by George O. (Jerry) Hawthorne, Jr., page 1, there is a copy of an ad in the Belfast Newsletter and General Advertiser announcing the trip to America 18 Aug 1767 which literally reads: "Gregs and Cunningham received advice yesterday from Charlestown, South Carolina, that the Bounty in passage, creates the bill of January 1768. Them that have agreed to proceed in the Brig Chichester, William Reed, Master are defined to be ready to go on board the 25th September next, for the will fail firth to take their passage in this vessel, may be speedy in making their agreements, for after this Bounty sales they will not have an opportunity of a free passage. Belfast, August 7th, 1767."

Per a GenForum message by Arthur K. Hawthorne dated May 5, 1998

<<http://genforum.genealogy.com/hawthorne>> Art states that he found records of the Hawthornes as members of the Ballyalbany Pres. Church in Monaghan County in 1751. FHL Catalog: Ireland-Church Records - Ballyalbany Presbyterian Church by S. Lyle Orr - Film #1279239, Item 20. Also, on this film Item 14 baptismal records of Pres. Congre. At Cahans (Ballyalbany). It gives the baptismal records for Robert 1753 and Joesep 1755 in Greagh Township, Drumsnatt Parish, Monaghan County. It shows the mothers last name as Chalmers and also has the baptismal records of three daughters of Margaret Johnston, the oldest daughter of John and Elizabeth. Arthur further states in the message that Robert and his brother both went to Georgia and Settled in Elbert County by 1792. By early 1800's both Robert and Joseph moved to Henderson Co., KY and by 1814 Robert bought land in White Co., IL. Joseph followed and was there by circa 1820. Both Robert and Joseph are buried in the Enfield Cemetery just outside of town. They both have DAR markers as soldiers of the Rev. War. I (Paul Price) have been to the cemetery and viewed the headstones. They are side by side with no other family member headstone adjacent. There are Hawthorne headstones in another section of the cemetery.

Notes for JAMES P. HAWTHORNE:

"Hawthorne v. Woolridge" - Abraham Lincoln's 1st law case: Abraham Lincoln's so-called first law case was James P. Hawthorne v. David Woolridge, July 1836. David Woolridge was married to James P. Hawthorne's younger sister, Margaret. In this case, James sued Woolridge for non-payment of rent and damages from not clearing a parcel of land as he had contracted to do. John Lawrence Hawthorn, was paid $2 as a witness for 4 days. Hawthorne won. See: "His Early Cases", page 83. Also see: Volume 1 of Carl Sanburg's "Biography of Lincoln" and Cullom Davis' papers and CD series on Lincoln's early years as a lawyer. In another case were James P. sued David Woolridge due to David beating up James P.; Woolridge was represented by young attorney named Abraham Lincoln. This was Lincoln's first case as an attorney. Lincoln won the case.

Lynne Hawthorne Rodriquez <DLR276@aol.com> descends from James P. who states that in one census (probably the 1830) that he had two children under 5 years of age and no wife. And that one of these children was her gg grandfather William Joseph Hawthorne. She has a James Hawthorne marrying a Jane Eliza Romell in Bourbon Co., KY on October 13, 1829. But I have a problem as I see it is that in 1830 it is unlikely that he would have two children under 5 unless they were twins since he married October 1829 and the census was probably taken in early 1830. And in 1840 census he had a wife Winney.

Fairfield County Museum News

Winter, 2010

Much Ado

This has probably been one of the busiest years for changes in the Fairfield County Museum. This tardy newsletter incorporates news on an incredible array of museum developments, beginning with my last correspondence announcing the successful April 16-17, 2010 Cornwallis house gala and historic tours. I will attempt to streamline all of the information as a long personal letter to members, as I feel it is important to keep you abreast of all that is going on.

In the last newsletter, I had just announced that our museum is going to be one of 12 S.C. sites to host the Smithsonian traveling exhibit, New Harmonies, in April of 2012. Thank goodness we have a year ahead of us to plan this, although time does tend to catch up fast. I am looking to hear from some of you who may want to join us on a planning session sometime in the early weeks of the 2011 New Year. Please go to <http://www.museumonmainstreet.org/newharmonies/index.htm> to familiarize yourselves with how our community could become involved in presenting an array of cultural events revolving around the exhibit. Please let me know (fairfieldmus@truvista or 635-9811) if you are interested in coming on board to help plan for the celebrations.

Love for a Log Cabin

Ed Gates and I had been working on this behind-the-scenes project for some time, and some of you have heard about the donation and relocating of a historically important log house to the backyard of the museum. During early museum development years, the historical society board had expressed an interest in relocating an early settlement type of structure for the interpretation of our county's earliest historical periods. In 2008, Bobby Brown deeded such a structure to the museum in hopes that we could find a way to preserve it. The Hawthorne-Brown house, last lived in by Mrs. Mildred Brown, was probably constructed in the decade around 1770 - 80 on a 100 acre royal grant to James Adams 1770 which was sold to James Hawthorne in 1771 before the American Revolution. This unique square-log and framed-extension long house is a prime example of how our forefathers began carving out of the backwoods an existence which would set the foundations for the successes of the succeeding generations.

For the first hundred years, members of the Hawthorne family inhabited the two-room-and-loft 18 ft. X 25 ft. log structure. A great grandson of the builder was the celebrated Methodist minister Alston Wilkes, who with his widowed young mother survived the deprivations of the Union foragers pre-preceding General William T. Sherman's raid of our county in February of 1865. In the early twentieth century, Mr. Wilkes went on to found Alston Wilkes Society, a nonprofit organization providing rehabilitative services to adults released from corrections facilities, one of the largest of its type in the nation.

In 1852, Wilkes's grandfather had secured the materials from a frame structure used as a dormitory building at nearby Furman College. The college had just ceased its 21 year existence as a theological seminary and classical college, its third location since its inception in Edgefield in 1825, and moved the school, lock, stock, and barrel to Greenville where it continues today operating as Furman University. An 18 ft. X 33 ft. addition was constructed from the materials, extending the living facilities for the family on the west end of the original log structure. Probably about the same time the old detached kitchen building was connected to the rear of the log building by a closed-in porch. In the 1880s Bobby Brown's great grandfather purchased the property which was occupied by his mother Mrs. Mildred Brown until she moved into more comfortable quarters in the 1980s. The empty structure has now begun to show signs of deterioration and Mr. Brown decided to follow our persistent suggestions, deeding the structure to the Museum in 2008.

In late April, a descendant of the Hawthorne ancestor, Mrs. Midge Novotny of Peoria, IL contacted me of her desire to help save her ancestor's house and has pledged a sum of money to help with the project. In addition, several other Hawthorne descendants from other states have contacted me about wanting to help with the funding. State Senator Creighton Coleman then stepped in to pledge his support and assistance in lining up help to begin the process. This interest did not go unnoticed by the county administrator Phil Hinely and Councilman David Brown, who stepped in to help with the planning process for the move. It was determined that a reconstruction of the structure would not only suffice to extend the interpretive collection of museum properties, but a suitable structural addition could be incorporated into the project to deal with the Museum's archives storage and other needs. County services were set up to assist Mr. Brown's removal of his family's stored belongings with a construction refuse receptacle and by clearing the access to the front of the building. All was set on go, when the following began to happen in rapid succession:

Big Changes

In late April, an announcement was sent out by the Fairfield County Historical Society board that it was considering the possibility of dissolution. Federal recognition for 501 C-3 eleemosynary status stipulated that if such an organization was to cease to exist, its properties and funds would need to be dispersed in a proper manner, following legal guidelines. If a new board could not be recruited, the organization would need to consider the fate of the museum's collections.

Just as in the late 1960s, when the citizens of Fairfield realized the necessity of saving the Cathcart building and celebrating our heritage with the institution of the Fairfield County Museum, a large number of concerned citizens attended a meeting in the Winnsboro Women's Club with the remaining officers of the society.

A number of individuals volunteered to offer their services as board members, were elected, and an executive slate was drawn and elected from the group of 17. Currently the president is Ben Hornsby, vice president is Bubba Lyles, the secretary is Brenda Miller, and Ed Gates is the treasurer. Board members are Claudia Cathcart, Trev and Willie Sherrod, Frank Blair, Lisa Cathcart, Charles Montgomery, Betty Harden, and Pam and Donnie Laird.

Resultantly, the board has been meeting monthly and resolved to legally gift the museum collection to the County Museum and deed the lot of city property immediately behind the museum to the County. The final dissolution of the society's real estate ownership will allow for the Museum to move ahead with planning for future projects and expansion, while the official recognition of Museum ownership of the collection will facilitate procedural management concerns such as permanence of status, insurance, and other legal issues. The gathering of interested individuals who now stepped up to revitalize the society was composed of original historical society participants who had helped to start the Friends of the Museum organization in 2006 to take up support for museum functions. The new board unanimously voted to merge the unincorporated mission and objectives of the Friends with the Fairfield County Historical Society. Members of the Friends will now become the membership of the combined organization under the historical society's 501 C-3 tax-exempt status and name. The society will now roll all memberships to an annual renewal date of January. Friends who have joined or renewed their membership since the spring of 2010 will automatically roll into paid status for the year starting January, 2011. All other memberships will be due in January and a form is attached for updating information in this newsletter.

In the years from 2005-2008, a federally funded Institute for Museum and Library Services grant had allowed the Fairfield County Museum to develop several award-winning outreach programs such as the oral-history film project, the Fairfield County Midwives project, the relocation and rebuilding of the McCreight eighteenth-century log barn, and the extensive Native American Cultural exhibit. With the added staff positions the funds allowed, the physical setup of the museum evolved to feature changing exhibit displays in large glass cases interspersed with some of the antique furniture that had been collected through the years, while we stored a large number of items into safe light-free storage on the third floor. The Museum quickly assumed a reputation as a statewide leader in exemplary programming among the ranks of small museums. The focus of our mission became enlarging the local audience and enfranchising previously unrepresented group histories into the museum's purview.

In these economic times, funding for expanding active museum programming is tight and grants are not as easy to find. When the grant moneys ran out in late 2008, the additional staff positions that the museum needs to be able to continue such activities were terminated. The talented individuals who had been working with these programs have been able to continue volunteering in limited capacities, but have also had to move into other areas to pursue careers. Without the additional personnel on a regular schedule, it was recognized that the museum would have to rethink programming. The Director, advised by the society's executive council, made an important decision to reset the Museum objectives and present its downstairs rooms as a period house setting, as the Museum had originally been presented. A member has donated the use of two commercial storage units where the now unneeded exhibit cases are being stored.

The reestablishment of an active historical society has virtually transformed the mission of the Fairfield County Museum overnight. The society has resumed its role as a support organization and the museum director has capitalized on their enthusiasm to utilize their talents as an active advisory council.

Grande Dame

The Historical Society then stepped in for the crowning move. Funds were secured from two previous community Downtown Development Showcase House projects from a few years ago and an endowment has been set up in honor of our town's Nineteenth Century grande dame of arts and education, Catharine Ladd. Catharine and her artist husband George W. Ladd conducted the highly esteemed Fairfield Female Institute in the building which is now our museum. These funds will be used to refurbish and repair the interior of the museum to represent the mid 1800s era in which it saw its heyday. On Oct. 28, 2010, an elegant reception was held in the Museum to commemorate this endowment, the gifting of the back acreage, and the recent acquisition of several important collection items. Margaret Floyd found and donated a previously unknown photographic portrait of Catharine Ladd and the Coleman-Feaster-Mobley Family Reunion Association returned two important oil portraits of Feaster family members that were painted by George Ladd.

The Catharine Ladd Endowment was immediately put to use to refurbish and decorate the downstairs rooms. Interior decorators Marion Coleman and Roberta Ketchin donated their personal services while the painting contractors Chuck and Henry Hines painted all surfaces and restored the old heart pine floor with boiled linseed oil. Roberta is having new upholstery and curtains made and she and her husband Tom have donated a fabulous Persian hall rug to match a similar one purchased by the Endowment.

With such friends, who can have negative thoughts about our community not caring for our valuable historic assets?

Additional Changes

We are very excited to have the Genealogy Rooms back on the second floor of the Museum. Due to health reasons and the scarcity of operating funds, the organization that had been managing the collection as a research library in a separate location had closed it to public use. The Museum was enthusiastic to have the opportunity to reestablish the facility on the second floor of the museum where it had originally been operated by volunteers of the Daughters of the American Revolution organization.

The acquisition of this collection has been the largest factor necessitating a complete re-design of the museum's interior spaces and programming objectives. Two exhibit rooms have been converted to house a burgeoning collection of books, files, microfilm, office machines, and archives collections, in addition to tables and chairs and space for researchers. The space is tight and additional volunteers are very much needed, but in a very short amount of time the museum has been seeing numbers of daily genealogical researchers from places as far away as California and Ballymena, Ireland. This facility has the potential for being a focal point for economic development in Fairfield County. For every meal and hotel room paid for, jobs are created, retail facilities are shopped in, and county and municipal facilities are utilized.

Disaster Strikes

The Museum's air conditioning systems broke down in June, necessitating a re-engineering feat which left the second and third floors without cooling in record heat for two months. Volunteers braved the unhealthy conditions to move furniture and boxes of books from the Vanderhorst street location of the genealogy establishment. Then, in late July, disaster struck when a large, seemingly healthy, pecan tree fell squarely across the roof of the restored McCreight log barn, totally smashing everything, including the 250 year-old log walls that had been so carefully dismantled and rebuilt by volunteer labor over a four-year span. Two Columbia TV news stations covered the tragedy sending out appeals for concern and help. At present the County's property insurance company is working with contractors to provide a plan for rebuilding the historic structure. Departmentalization with Fairfield County has assured the Museum of continued benefits like this.

As for me...

Working for the Museum this year has provided me with a plethora of experiences, almost like trying to ride a wild horse in a wide open space. Some of my most fervent hopes for the establishment have been realized, where others have been nearly dashed. Some projects, such as the moving of the Hawthorne-Brown house, have had to be put to simmer on a back burner for the moment, but with your continued support and interest in the museum as members of the Fairfield County Historical Society, together we will tame the wild horse!

Christmas Open House

By now, members have gotten their mailed announcements about our December 12 Christmas Open House from 4 to 7 PM. This year, we decided to offer a special Sunday-only event, allowing the following week to display the county garden clubs' traditional live decorations for visitors to savor the old fashioned Christmas atmosphere in the newly refurbished rooms. At the end of the week there will be a drawing for a copy of Julian Stevenson Bolick's illustrated Fairfield Sketchbook.
