Mary and Kells,

The genealogy research facility that you visited a few years ago could not make it and we moved the collection back to the museum last summer. However, Linda Malone, the volunteer who managed the collection has been stricken with Rheumatoid Arthritis and no longer researches. I have had a time trying to get regular volunteers to help manage the research queries, so it is hit or miss. However, yesterday I had some help and we searched the existing family files on Mauldin. There is no collected material here. I did look in the Hawthorne file and saw that Margaret Hawthorne (1820 – 1841) married James Mooty. There are no Mooty files either, although I did not cross reference into the Owens and Holmes files as I'd assumed you saw them on your visit here. I can have someone look further into this later if you haven't looked at the above-mentioned materials before.

I did notice the middle name of Harris Tyre Mauldin. I know that the Lee family of Chester County uses Tyre as a first name. Nancy looked through the brief resources we have on Chester County lines with no results. Do you think the families could have Chester or other nearby county connections? There is a great active research site on Chester county lines that I just sent you an incoming newsletter from. You may want to join the site to check out the families. Not all of the counties in this area have such an active site, but Chester and some other SC sites are very good.

Hope this helps...

-Pelham
