Second Place - Recognizing African-Americans in History

A Noble Woman

For all you people that didn't know, a noble woman is Rosa Parks. Her courage is higher than McDonald's arch. A noble woman is Rosa Parks, did you know she sat at the front of the bus while the white man got mad and put up a fuss. Rosa Parks just sat there and clutched her purse she didn't scream shout or curse. So the police came and of who did they place the blame, Rosa Parks a noble woman who should be proud of her name. She stood up for African Americans everywhere.
