

Descendants of Hinchia² Mabry

Hinchia² Maybury was born about 1696 in Surry County Virginia, son of Francis¹ Maybury and Elizabeth Gilliam. He married Frances Parham, daughter of Ephraim Parham and Frances Green, about 1720. His second marriage was to Anne Jackson, widow of Ambrose Jackson, Sr., on 22 June 1747. After her death he married a third time to Ann Clack Courtney, also a widow, sometime before 1 January 1752. Ann Clack was the daughter of the Rev. James Clack, who was born in Wiltshire, England and died 20 Dec 1723 in Gloucester County, Virginia. It is likely that Hinchia Mabry's first marriage took place in Surry County, while the second and third took place in Brunswick County. He died about 1761 in Brunswick County. His given name which is often found in succeeding generations is a corruption of the family name of his maternal grandmother, Margery Henshaw. Margery was the daughter of Thomas Henshaw, who was born in England before 1600 and was living on Otterdam in Surry County by 1632. For more information about Hinchia² Maybury and his family, see "The Second Maybury Generation".

Russell Albert⁴ Mabry b ca 1807 GA; m1 31 Dec 1829 Ann Champion (d/o William Champion) in Hall Co GA; m2 22 Jan 1848 Mary Atterberry in Hunt Co TX; m3 1852-60 Sarah A. Atterberry in Ellis County TX; d 1865 in AR while taking supplies to his sons fighting with the Confederacy. Russell Mabry came to Texas about 1844 from Benton (now Calhoun) County Alabama. His first wife, Ann Champion probably died in Alabama. He settled at the head of Elm Fork and Mineral Creek in the Cross Timbers in that part of old Fannin County which became Hunt County in 1846. He married Mary Atterbury in Hunt County in 1848. He is undoubtedly the Russell Maberry who was involved in a Coroner's inquest reported in the Northern Standard, Clarksville, Texas on 12 April 1851. The report, also published in the Texas State Gazette on 26 April 1851, indicates that Russell Mabry was responsible for the death of Wiley B. Hatcher in February of that year following an argument over a cow.

d ca 1861 Leake Co MS; While is not yet possible to document James Thomas as a son of Joel⁴ Mabry, there is strong circumstantial evidence to support this assumption. The name of James or James T.
Mabry appears in several Franklin County, Georgia records associated with Joel Mabry about 1811-1813.
There is also a tradition in the family of James Thomas Mabry that he had brothers named: Walter, William and Joel. (1830 MS Hinds; 1840 MS Leake;

There are no census records for Joel⁴ Mabry because the 1790-1820 census records are missing. He also seems to have died without leaving a will. His known sons are: Walter, Patrick, William, James Thomas, and Mark Seth. It is likely that he and Polly Wafer had other children. His sons, Walter, Patrick, Mark and James T. (assumed to be s/o Joel) appear on the tax rolls of Franklin County, Georgia along with Phillip and Thomas W. Mabry who could be sons as well. Walter is first found on the tax rolls in 1803; Patrick in 1805; Mark (Seth) in 1808; and James T. in 1811. Phillip first appears in 1803 and Thomas W. in 1805. Phillip and wife, Fanny, sold their land on 23 October 1809 and no further record has been found of their in any location. William apparently did not own land in Franklin County, GA. He was in Anite County, MS by 1811 and in Ouachita Parish, LA by 1820. By 1818 Thomas W. Mabry aquired land in adjacent Elbert County where he is found in the census from 1820 through 1840. He is probably the father of a younger Thomas W. Mabry who is in the 1850 census of Clarke County. The Ephraim Mabry who first appears on the tax rolls of Franklin County in 1805 is Ephraim⁴, youngest brother of Joel⁴ Mabry. There is a strong tradition in the family of James Thomas⁵ Mabry that he had brothers William, Walter and Joel. According to this tradition Joel Jr. settled on the Choctawhatchee River near Eufaula, Alabama at an early date. No records have been found for him.

James² Mabry b 1793 SC; m1 ca 1809/10; m2 Ann; (1830 IL Hamilton?; 1840 GA Murray; 1850 AL Chambers) It is quite likely that James Mabry was a son of Adam Poole⁴, although it has not been proven. (The 1850 census of Chambers Co GA indicates his presence in Illinois in 1830. He may be the James Maberry in Hamilton Co IL 1830. Others there are descendants of Frederick Mayberry of NJ; but unlike the them, James was not there in 1820 or 1840)

William Pierce Mabry was opposed to slavery and did not participate in the Civil War. On April 21 1885 four white men came to his property late at night with the purpose of whipping a black woman, Caroline Sisley, who worked for Mr. Mabry and lived on his property with her two sons.
Mr. Mabry, hearing the noise, came to her aid and was shot by one of the men. Following a preliminary hearing two of the men, W. C.
Henderson and Calvin Skinner, were charged with the murder but were found innocent. An account of the preliminary hearing was printed in the Home Journal, Faraville, Louisiana on May 1, 1885.

(Joel⁵ Mabry had another daughter known only as "F. Mabry", whose death is mentioned in the journal of Bishop Francis Asbury on January 24, 1782: "I had a large congregation at Mabry's chapel. I trust the work revives the souls of these people. I lodged with my old friend, J. (Joel) Mabry, who gave me the following account of the death of his daughter, F. Mabry, who for some years past appeared to live the life of faith. In August last she was taken ill: when at the point of death, the Lord cut short his work in her soul, cleansing her heart; she testified what God had done for her with great power, her language surprising all who were present; she appeared to be kept alive one whole day almost miraculously her father said, he thought the power of God was so strongly upon her, that she could not die.")
