Realizing that our children, with our passing, will have lost the opportunity to find out many interesting facts concerning the history of our families, I have put together the information which has been handed down to me by my elders. Though the facts are meager, they give us an insight into the character of our ancestors who have formed a background for our lives today.

With present day advantages and opportunities, it is difficult to realize the hardships and struggles of pioneer life. The strength of character thus developed in them is something for which we should be thankful. And may our generation see to it that the heritage we hand down to our posterity is as good.

I have followed only the history of our direct descent from generation to generation to avoid confusion in branching off into other lines. A lot of the information came from the South Carolina Room and the DAR Section of the Laurens County Library.

Grace McClintock Fleming

First Generation

John McClintock, I 1728 - 1796

Married Margaret Simpson 1733 - 1796 (1817)

He was born in Ulster County, Ireland and she was born in County Antrim, Ireland. They were married in Ireland and came to America and Laurens County October, 1772.

Both are buried in Old Fields Cemetary in Scuffletown (now called Ora).
(or both are buried in Laurens Cemetary?)

They are both of Scotch - Irish decent.

They had nine (9) children.

1. James McClintock 1755 - 1810
Married Margaret Hutchinson
2. Margaret McClintock 1756 - 1828
Married John Hunter
3. Martha McClintock 1765 - 1836
Married Rev. Robert McClintock (her cousin) in 1796
4. Mary McClintock 1770 - 1814
Married Alexander Mills
5. Samuel McClintock - died at the age of 15
6. John McClintock 1771 - 1803

7. Elizabeth McClintock 1775 - 1849
Married Robert Fleming ("Big Bob")
8. Nancy McClintock 1777 - 1838
Married to James Fleming (brother to "Big Bob")
9. William McClintock died in infancy

Throughout his life, John McClintock, I, was faithful to, and active in, the lay work of the church. He served with devotion as an elder in the Old Fields and Laurens Presbyterian congregation in which city he was a successful merchant.

Note: He was an elder 40 years (from inscription upon tombstone).

John McClintock, II, was killed by a horse in Warrior's Creek. He was a stock raiser and was near Yarboroughs Mill. The horse was a fine stallion. While at the mill, he was washing the horse which became frightened and pawed him, had the men at the mill not been afraid of the horse, they could have saved John's life. Thomas McCarley witnessed this tragedy and was paralyzed with terror - John was 32 years old when he died April 7, 1803.

James McClintock, eldest child of Margaret Simpson and John McClintock, I, was drowned in 1810 near his residence - he was trying to ford the swollen waters of Warrior Creek with a wagon and a team of mules when one of the mules missed his footing and fell into the swift current. In the effort to rescue the team, James became entangled in the harness and was drowned before help could be summoned.

Samuel McClintock was taken up by a scouting party near the close of the Revolutionary and by threats of hanging, compelled to tell where his brother James had gone, then Samuel was released.

Second Generation

John McClintock, II 1776 - 1803

Son of John I, and Margaret Simpson McClintock of Ireland and the United States.

Married Jane Law (1769 - 1839) born in Antrim County, Ireland - the daughter of Samuel Law and Elizabeth Adger Law. Her parents later migrated to America and lived at Gilder's Creek, Newberry County, S.C.

They had 4 children:

1. Elizabeth McClintock
Married James Taylor
2. Margaret McClintock
Married William Mills
3. Nancy McClintock
Married William Jackson Bryson
4. John McClintock, III
Married Mary Martin

Jane Law's second husband was William Hamilton

John McClintock, II was born in County Intrim, Ireland - he is buried in Old Field Cemetary, Ora, S.C.

The Law family is buried in Fairfield County - Pressley's Creek Church Community.

Elizabeth McClintock 1775 - 1849

Daughter of Margaret Simpson and John McClintock, I, she married Robert "Big Bob", Fleming (1771 - January 26, 1826) the son of Samuel Fleming, I.

They had 10 children:

1. Mary Mollie Fleming 1798 - 1866

6. Margaret Fleming 1797 -
Records show that she was still unmarried in 1867.
7. Jane Fleming 1814 - 1855
Married Samuel J. Blakely 1817 - 1892
8. James Fleming 1816 -
Married Margaret Adaline Little (no issue)
9. John Fleming 1805 -
married Matilda Todd
10. Samuel Fleming 1803 - 1882
Married Harriet Jane Williams - 1888

"Big Bob" Robert Fleming and Elizabeth McClintock Fleming are buried in Old Field's Cemetary, Ora, S.C. (once called Scuffletown). They belonged to Bethel Church. She was noted for her great piety. Being left a widow with a large family (10 children), by her great industry and good judgement, she managed to give her children a good common school education. She was a woman of great magnetism and was loved and respected by all of her neighbors. She was ever ready to help those in need or sickness and always delighted to entertain the ministers of her church. She was well informed on the Bible and taught the Westminster Catechism to all of her children and those of her grandchildren who stayed with her much of the time. Her last words before she died were repeating the 23rd Psalm.

They were both natives of Ireland, but were married in this country. He was barely old enough to remember crossing the ocean when his father came to America.

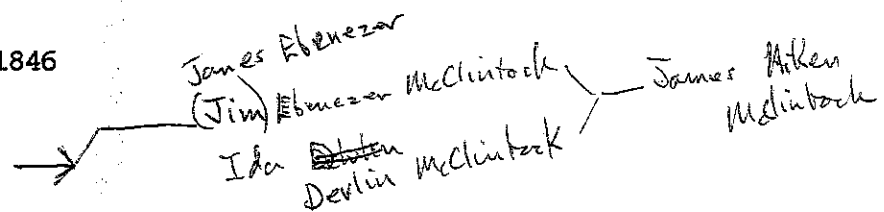

Third Generation

John McClintock, III May 1, 1801 - April 20, 1872

Son of John II, and Jane Law McClintock. Born May 1802 and died 1871. Married Mary Martin. She was born in Charleston on June 9th, 1803. She was the daughter of David and Margaret Aiken Martin of Fairfield, S.C. She Died on April 24th, 1891.

5. John Law McClintock 1841 -1846
Died in infancy
6. William Aiken McClintock
Married Frances E. Nesbitt
7. James Edward McClintock 1843
Died an infant (lived 10 months)
8. Ebenezer Pressley McClintock
Married Elizabeth Hane Young
9. Robert Martin McClintock 1847
Died an infant (lived 3 months)

* John McClintock, III, was a farmer, deeply and judiciously devoted to the interest of the church, being himself a member of the Associate Reformed Synod of the South. Ebenezer Pressley McClintock, later became a minister in the ARP Church. He and Elizabeth Jane Young McClintock had two daughters:

- * A. Euphemia Elizabeth McClintock, famous college President of College for Women, Columbia, S.C. Dean of Women at Columbia University, New York. She also conducted Miss McClintock's School on Beacon Street in Boston, Mass.
- B. Mary Law McClintock received distinction in educational work.

John McClintock, III, is buried in Old Field's Cemetary, Ora, S.C.

David Aiken McClintock was killed by pulling a pot of scalding coffee from the stove.

In early 1831, John McClintock, III, bequeathed a lot of land designated for the construction of a female academy - the Laurensville Female Academy was founded in 1843. This was a non-denominational school until 1858, when it went under the control of the Presbyterian Synod and it became the Laurensville Female College. It closed in 1892.

Bella Bryson finished the Junior Class of Due West Female College and graduated from the Laurensville Female College in 1781.

In December, 1830, the Laurensville Female Academy was incorporated by the General Assembly.

In February 1831, John McClintock conveyed to the Trustees of the Laurensville Female Academy, a lot of land 184 foot by 240 foot in the village of Laurens for the purpose of erecting a female academy thereon. The deed granted the right to the use of water from a spring on the adjoining property of Mr. McClintock. The lot ran 184 feet on the western side of present church street, known as Lady's Street about 1840 and as mentioned in the deed, the approximate center of the lot faced the present intersection of Church and Laurens Streets.

Subscriptions were taken all over the county for the purpose of erecting a building to house the female academy, or seminary, as it was both referred to at that time.

The school was first taught by Miss Dorothy Teague Young, and her sister, Miss Florella Young, daughters of Abner Young, who had been educated in a Moravian School for young women at Salem, N.C.. The campus was later extended and the Female Academy eventually was succeeded by the Laurensville Female College whose college building was constructed about 1856. (information taken from History of Laurens County by Marion R. Wilkes - Laurens County Library)

About 1900, the property of this college was converted into a public school and the college was therefore discontinued. Rev. Zelotes Lee Holmes was a professor there.

The Laurensville Presbyterian Church, now the First Presbyterian Church of Laurens, S.C., was organized in the courthouse on Sunday, April 1, 1832. The first pastor was Reverend Samuel B. Lewers, who for some time before the organization had been preaching at this place. John McClintock, III, and his wife, Mary Martin McClintock, were two of the fourteen early charter members of the church.

Colonel Henry Young Simpson stated in his address at the church's centennial service in 1932 that in the early days negroes were received into the membership of this church, infants were baptized, and the funeral services of colored members were conducted by the pastor - This was the common practice of many southern churches at the time. They were taken into the church by the session, in the same manner as white members and occupied comfortable seats in the gallery. The church buildings though, which used to have galleries, have about disappeared - (from the History of Laurens County by Marion R. Wilkes).

Mr. & Mrs. David Martin McClintock, Augusta McClintock, LeRoy Sellers, Grace McClintock, and Harold McClintock attended the centennial in 1932.
