

Notice Regarding Copyright Restrictions and Use of Reproductions

The copyright law of the United States (Title 17, United States Code) governs the making of photocopies or other reproductions of copyrighted materials. Libraries and archives are authorized, under certain conditions specified by law, to furnish a photocopy or other reproduction upon request by a patron. The scans contained in this file are being provided to you pursuant to 17 U.S. Code § 107 - Limitations on exclusive rights: Fair use and 17 U.S. Code § 108 - Limitations on exclusive rights: Reproduction by libraries and archives. The South Caroliniana Library is committed to providing broad access to its collections for teaching, learning, and research. The Library's websites, catalog records, finding aids, and digital images enhance scholarship and promote use of both the digital and the original object. Except in a few exceptional circumstances the South Caroliniana Library does not hold the copyright to its materials and, hence, cannot grant or deny permission to use them. Accordingly, you are solely responsible for determining the copyright status and appropriate use of reproductions we provide, to investigate the owner of the copyright, and to obtain permission for your intended use if required. While the Library does not provide information about copyright status or the copyright holder, this does not imply that the work is free of copyright protection or that the copyright holder cannot be located. Library patrons receiving reproductions of library collection materials assume all responsibility for questions of copyright that may arise in the use made of the reproductions.
