Devoted to the memory of Zachariah Trapp
who died June 29th
A.D. 1849
aged 61 years 10 months and 5 days

Though his sufferings were uncommonly severe they were borne with christian fortitude and patience And when the king of terrors approached him in Job's words he exclaimed though God slay me yet ^{will} ~~not~~ trust in him with this convincing evidence of his faith, his relations, sorrow not as those without hope.

1. Sacred to the Memory of

Oh cruel death couldst thou not spare this blossoming bud so fresh so gay Now from this stem so rudely tear and mark its beauty with decay

But (oh) may soul be shall and ^(know) it was a messenger from thy God and in His dark my stem Now leave to an bles and thine the rod(?)
