MISSION STATEMENT

The mission of the Fairfield County Genealogical Society is:

- to promote genealogy through education of its members and the general public;
- to improve access to genealogical information in Fairfield County by maintaining an educational research center;
- to foster collaboration among members;
- to assist those researching their Fairfield County ancestors;
- to conduct periodic educational programs and conferences to explore cultural, genealogical, and historical topics;
- to disseminate cultural, genealogical, historical and biographical information to members and to the general public.

Fairfield Genealogical Society 3rd Quarter Newsletter 2014

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Shelbia and I researching a request using our new used microfilm reader donated by the LDS Church in Centerville.

Hello everyone,

The following is a little about us and our Genealogy Research Library.

The purpose of the Fairfield County Genealogical Research Library is to provide research opportunities to the general public by providing access to historic information of Fairfield and adjacent counties in an educational research environment.

This organization also strives to disseminate cultural, genealogical, historical, and biographical information to members of the Fairfield County Chapter of the SC Genealogical Society and to the general public through monthly meetings. To assist in the genealogical quest these periodic educational programs and workshops explore cultural, genealogical and historical topics. These meetings are all open to all society members and any person of the general public interested in the presented topic. Plan to check out our announcement page on our website. I hope you do plan to attend some of these opportunities.

The facility for operation of this research library is housed in Winnsboro, on the 2nd floor of the Fairfield County Museum, an old historic home listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

The facility is open to the public at least 1,880 hours per year plus appointments. We have on average 200+ visitors during the year and on average about 300 for the summer months. On average about 2/3's of these visitors are researchers. About 50% of these researchers are from other counties in South Carolina and from other states. In order to facilitate this organization's library collection of over 3,000 books and files, Book Cat, a librarian recommended software is utilized to catalog these valuable research tools.

This professional research environment with the seating and work space for 8-10 people gives access to these documents for free to the general public during normal hours of operation or by appointment for independent research. A desktop, 32" large screen to assist with viewing for the seeing impaired, OCR scanner, B/W high usage printer, color low usage printer, laptop, microfilm reader and WI-FI are available for the researcher at no cost. Researchers are allowed on-site access to research organization web sites for their convenience. Research assistance is free for the walk-in up to three hours of help. After three hours, our normal rate is $15 per request and $.10 per copied page of materials. Members of the chapter receive priority for their email research request, copies and research are free. Also for disabled impaired researchers materials and laptop are made available for their research downstairs in the museum.

One paid, part-time research manager is available four days per week and volunteer researchers fill in the other two days. Please help us out and volunteer, if you can give a few hours a day. Membership in the Fairfield County Genealogy Society (a chapter of the SC Genealogical Society) is encouraged but not required for the public to use this research library. This research facilitate is also a designated Family Search Center and an affiliate of the Latter Day Saint's Family Search Research and Library System.

In conclusion, you all know our society chapter, Genealogy Research Library and its collection is a reflection of your many contributions through your membership, your gifts, your donations, your many hours of volunteer work, your attendance in meetings, your generosity in giving toward our society and your help in reaching of our society's goals. Thank you!

Humbly in your service,
Eddie

Subject: Fwd: [nalil] Cathcart Family of Seneirl to Winnsboro South Carolina ??

Hello, Remember me?? I visited the Fairfield Museum back in 2010, I'm from Ballymoney, Co Antrim and was interested in the Rev William Martins group of immigrants from my area. I hope everyone is well and still interested in Genealogy. Sadly I haven't done much of this type of work for a while but seem to be getting involved again this past few weeks.

Anyhow after having an very interesting conversation with a neighbor yesterday about how some of his folks migrated and settled in and around Winnsboro, SC, I thought of you guys and thought I should forward this message which I sent to the North Antrim Genealogy list.

By the way some of you was interested in the "McCaw" family as I recollect, there has been some recent emails to this Nalil recently.

Best Wishes from Ballymoney.

Derek Torrens.

Hello Derek,

Yes, we are always interested in help from Ireland for families that migrated to Fairfield County (or Winnsboro) from Ireland. We have a good bit of information for most of these families, but as you know there is never enough. If someone needs help with their Ballymoney, Co Antrim, Ireland or Northern Antrim to Fairfield County (or Winnsboro) South Carolina ancestor, would it be okay with you, if I put a message in our next newsletter for them to contact either you or the North Antrim Genealogy List?

Hello Eddie, Many Thanks for your reply and kind offer to create a closer link with North Antrim. I gave up trying this as I felt I wasn't getting much help from your end, But it wasn't you I dealt with before, But maybe it was shortly after my visit when the museum was getting much work done, you Sir are a breath of fresh air offering to help, I can't thank you enough.

Yes, I really look forward to hearing from anyone who has ancestors from Ballymoney, Bushmills, Kells, Ballymena which is all part of North Antrim from which the Rev William Martins people came from.

Looking forward to any queries and our correspondence. Many Thanks.

Derek.

Okay, you all have a contact in Northern Ireland (Antrim County). Now is your chance to ask Derek or their genealogy yahoo group list, questions about your ancestors from Ireland. Betty H., your inquiry about John Cork's origins in Ireland, comes right away to my mind.

QUERIES

I am looking for information on my G G GrandMother Sarah Hollis. I don't know when she was born or died. I do know they lived in the area of SC near the Gladden Grove. Her daughters were Melissa who married a Gibson (Melissa was born 9-6-1842 and died in Great Falls 3-9-1938) she is buried at Mt. Olivet Church and Eliza who was born in 1840. I don't have any information on Eliza. I do have a picture of them standing together.

I am also looking for the Morrison ancestors who lived in the upper part of Fairfield County. My G Grandfather's certificate of death said he died 12-3-1918. He was born 9-20-1849 in Fairfield County. It did not have his father's name. It said his father was born in Ireland, but they didn't add his father's name, therefore, we don't know who to look for. All of these relatives lived in the upper part of Fairfield County near Mt Olivet Church.

Contact: Joan Gehring @ jmorr@nc.rr.com or 919-973-3035.

My name is Dale McCorvey (legally: Ann Ragsdale McCormick McCorvey. My grandson was named Ford after my grandmother. Her name was Frances Lee Ford. I am looking for any information about my grandmother. She married my grandfather Samuel McCormick from Longtown. She had a sister Janie Ford and brother Strother Ford. Janie lived in Blackstock, my grandmother in Mitford after she married.

I have lots of information about my Ragsdale family (my middle name) and have become close friends with distant Ragsdale cousins. I would like to provide my grandson with similar information.

EVANS AND MOBLEY FIGHT

Candidates For Railroad Commissioner Get Together on the Streets of Columbia

After having received an unsatisfactory reply to certain demands made by himself upon Mr. W. Boyd Evans, Mr. John G. Mobley, of Fairfield yesterday attacked Mr. Evans with a rawhide. The affair created a decided sensation, for it occurred almost in front of the court house at a busy hour of the morning and before the two men could be parted a large crowd had collected.

It was evident that no mere political disagreement caused the affair, for Mr. Mobley, though a man of high spirit, has always been regarded as very amiable and kindly in his nature. He and Mr. Evans are candidates for the office of railroad commissioner, and were contestants for the same position two years ago. It was said yesterday that at a political meeting at Hampton an encounter of this kind was narrowly averted.

Mr. Mobley, witnesses say, struck Mr. Evans at least four blows with his horsewhip which he had purchased for the purpose. Mr. Mobley was unarmed and offered this, he says as the deepest insult which he could to who, he believed, had invaded his private life in making a political campaign. The two clinched after the first few passionate blows from the rawhide, and friends rushed up. Mr. Mobley tore himself away from those who were trying to calm him and there was another short encounter before Sheriff Coleman appeared and separated the belligerent parties. Each was put under a peace bond for $300 and summoned to appear in the recorder's court this morning.

Mr. Mobley stated yesterday that in the last campaign stories damaging to his character were circulated. Notwithstanding the fact that he has court records and affidavits from honorable men to show that the attack upon himself was unjust, the same stories have been put into circulation recently. When he came to Columbia Wednesday from his farm in Fairfield, he was told that Mr. Evans was responsible for the circulation of these damaging reports. He immediately determined to demand an explanation of Mr. Evans, and failing to get a satisfactory statement, he would apply the horsewhip.

Yesterday morning Mr. Mobley, accompanied by his cousin, Mr. F. M. Mobley, waited on Law Range until Mr. Evans appeared. After introducing his cousin to Mr. Evans, Mr. Mobley stated the object of his interview. Mr. Evans denied Mr. Mobley's accusation, whereupon Mr. Mobley, it is said, drew his rawhide from the paper in which it was wrapped and struck at Mr. Evans's face. The latter, warding off the blow, received the stroke on his shoulder. In an instant several blows with the whip were struck, when Mr. Evans closed in upon his assailant.

Before serious hurt was received by either party friends interfered and pushed them 15 or 20 feet apart. Upon both demanding to be released and freeing themselves, they rushed together and several blows were passed before the sheriff arrived.

The sheriff immediately telephoned for Magistrate Moorman and as soon as the papers could be executed Mr. Evans and Mr. Mobley were put under peace bonds. Mr. Mobley stated that as far as he was concerned he was satisfied and that he would not offer any further personal violence to Mr. Evans. Later both were summoned to appear before the recorder's court this morning on the charge of "disorderly conduct". It is probable that a full account of the whole affair and circumstances leading up to yesterday's denouement may be brought out. Mr. Evans, when asked by a reporter if he desired to make a statement of the affair, said he was reluctant at this time to go into the whole matter and only cared for the present to make the following statement:

"I have been summoned to appear before the recorder tomorrow morning, being charged with disorderly conduct, and I presume that Mr. Mobley is also to be tried. At the trial I will testify, and do not think it proper for me to make a statement prior to that time.

Mr. Mobley was also asked for any statement that he voluntarily cared to make public. His position as characterized by himself is as follows:

Fairfield Genealogical Society 3rd Quarter Newsletter 2014

“Having been informed by a gentleman of high standing that Mr. Evans was using unfair methods to damage my character I gave him an opportunity to deny or confirm this, which he evaded in an insulting manner. I then applied a horsewhip to him.

“I was totally unarmed, not having even a pocket knife on my person at the time of the encounter. As much as I regret having to do this I have no excuse to offer for having thus protected my honor, which I hold dearer than my life.”

A STORY OF THE REGULATORS

How They Checked the Flood of Crime that was Overwhelming South Carolina in Colonial Times –
A Leaf from the History of Old Fairfield
(From the Carolina Times, October 1, 1857)

Messrs. Editors: From a manuscript history of Fairfield District (the work of the late Philip Edward Pearson of Matagorda, Texas), I take the liberty of sending you the account, which will be found below, of the Regulation, one of the most important events of the colonial history of South Carolina – an event which caused much bloodshed at the time, and came near producing civil war, but which ultimately resulted in great good to the settlers of the interior, inasmuch, as it led to the establishment of courts of justice, the restoration of peace and quiet, and the protection of private property. Mr. Pearson was a native of Fairfield District, an eminent lawyer, and for many years solicitor of the Middle Circuit. He took great interest in everything connected with the colonial and revolutionary history of South Carolina, and his memory was a perfect storehouse of facts, incidents and anecdotes, relating to those periods, as well as the early administration of justice and the practice of his profession. With the history of his own district, even to the minutest particular, he was perfectly familiar; hence, no man was better qualified to write the record he has left behind him than himself. Of the “Regulation” he says:

This capital event in the colonial history of South Carolina, originated in Fairfield. The causes and important result will appear in the sequel. A fellow by the name of Brown was arrested on a stolen horse near the mouth of Little River. How he should be disposed of was a question. Thomas Woodward, Barnaby Pope and William McGraw, were sent for to settle the difficulty. They arrived in good time – there was the stolen horse, there the shrinking offender. These most worthy citizens appeared slow in their resolves. At length Billy McGraw, wearied with delay, arose and addressed the bystanders, “We are,” said he, “in a fix, with a majority of the white population in the colony, and a great deal of property in hand, and that fast and accumulation, we have no courts with jurisdiction to hear and punish the graver offences. Evil doers are taking advantage of our awkward situation and swarming in the country, and so it is, that no citizen can call his life or his property his own. Depredations are daily and nightly committed. The thieves are banded together. If a thief is arrested and forwarded under guard to Charleston, 140 miles distance, they waylay the guard, kill off several and arrest the prisoners. Should the guard arrive in Charleston with the prisoner, the witnesses have to attend court a great inconvenience – they, too, are often waylaid and shot by the thieves – so that a conviction of one of the gang never has and never will be effected. My voice is for a present and immediate remedy. I propose as a punishment for the man Brown, 75 lashes, on the bare back, well laid on. McGraw’s speech, delivered with his peculiar warmth, and emphasis, and his motion prevailed nem. con. Brown was forthwith taken up and received the keen reward of his iniquity.

This event was a signal for the felons to consolidate and concert their military movements. They were determined to vindicate the right to plunder at the rifle's mouth. They took the name of Moderators and formed under the command of John Musgrove. The freeholders, and honest portion of the community, were not behind them in preparation. They formed under a number of military leaders, and took the appropriate name of Regulators. The following extract is from the Newberry Sentinel:

“John Musgrove (Col. Musgrove, as he as well as his brother Edward was called), lived on the Saluda. Of him I have no personal knowledge, nor do I know the precise spot where he lived. At his place the Regulators and Scofilites, in 1864, met in battle array. Happily, however, no battle occurred. When, however, all expected a bloody contest, General Matthew Richardson, of the High Hills, commissioned by the governor to prevent extremities, rode up. He was a man born for authority, and was the universally beloved of the middle and up country. What a blessing to a people is such a personage, endowed with something like divine authority, whose presence can strike multitudes with awe, and whose voice calm the raging tumult of human passions. At his suggestion, flags were exchanged, and they agreed to separate and petition the Governor for redress of grievances. This was done, and after the great delay of five years, the Circuit Court Act of 1769 was passed, bringing justice home to the people. This quieted all domestic dissensions. Although no actual battle was fought between the Regulators and Scotilites, I have always understood there was some firing. The following amusing anecdote shows that must have been the case. A rather windy gentleman who lived on the Beaverdam, joined the Regulators, and talked a great deal about the fighting he would do. As the parties were nearing one another, guns were fired. He took the alarm, fled, and wearing a long-tailed coat, with a led inkstand in the shirt pocket, as he jumped a gulley it flew up and struck him on the back of the head; he fell forward, exclaiming: “I am shot, I am a dead man, quarter, gentlemen, quarter gentlemen!” The man Scofil, who was made a colonel by Lord Charles Greenville Montague, Governor of the province, and is called Scoveil in Ramsey's history must have been a great scoundrel, fit only to command thieves and disorderly persons, with which, as might be expected, the upper country, without any court nearer than Charleston, abounded, and to suppress which the regulation was instituted. For I have heard it related by one (whose memory I never found at fault) that Scofil, after the Circuit Court Act went into operation, was tried at Ninety-Six for stealing chickens. The proof was that there were thirty-eight chickens stolen. Scofil swore “I was a damn'd lie, there were only six and thirty, for I ate the gizzards.”

John Musgrove, from whom I have wandered off, to give some particulars of the Regulation or matters growing out of it, was a tory colonel in the Revolution. The only known act of his command, was the encampment of his force on a knoll beyond the sawmill at Bobo's mills on Bush River, and his precipitate flight thence, on hearing a false report, that the Whigs under Casey were about attacking. He must have been a man of considerable substance. For many years after the Revolution, a large number of horses called “Heretics”, were wild in the stone-hills, and were said to be of his stock turned loose in the range.

At the pacific termination of the meeting at Musgrove's, Gen Richardson ordered, in pursuance of his instructions, that the ringleaders of the Regulators should be arrested and put in irons. The order was obeyed. Joseph Kirkland, Thomas Woodward, Barnaby Pope, William McGraw, Moses Kirkland, William Kirkland, Philip Pearson and many others were immediately taken into custody and handcuffed. The prisoners were Fairfield men, and as soon as they were marched east of Broad River, all were released unconditionally but Woodward, Pope and McGraw. Woodward, Pope and McGraw, the chief sinners, were conveyed under a strong guard to Charleston. On arriving at the city, they were conducted to the office of Sir Egerton Leigh, the Attorney General of the province. The prisoners were no sooner in his presence than he began to pitch like a madman. "How dare you fellows to take the law into your own hands, and contrary to all law, to whip his Majesty's subjects? – stop must be put to these vile proceedings." Woodward said McGraw looked like a chafed lion, Pope like a philosopher, and "I" said he, "felt as if I were in a very bad scrape." After Sir Egerton had fumed off his wrath, he directed his clerk to take the recognizances of the prisoners, to appear at the court in Charleston at the next term, but without security. On the council books, it appears, that next year an application was made by the persons concerned in the arrest and conveyance of these persons to town, but the application was rejected on the ground that Woodward, Pope and McGraw were very well able to pay their own costs. Thus ended the Regulation, which once threatened all the horrors of a civil contest.

Thus ended Mr. Pearson's account of the Regulation.

Defaulting Treasurer—H. A. Smith, County Treasurer of Fairfield County, was arrested on the warrant of the State Treasurer, charged with being defaulter to the State to the amount of $18,000. Col. Fillebrowne, the agent of the State Treasurer, made the arrest on Monday, at Winnsboro, and recovered some $8,000 in cash from Mr. Smith, which he deposited for safe keeping in the national bank, but on his applying subsequently for the cash the bank refused to refund the amount to Col. Fillebrowne, on the ground that the same were court funds. In this emergency, Judge Mackey stepped quickly to the front, and ordered the money to be counted and turned over to the Clerk of the Court, in whose hands it is to remain pending judicial inquiry.

From the May 13, 1874 Issue of the Abbeville Press and Banner

Convicted—County Treasurer H. A. Smith, of Fairfield, has been sentenced by Judge Mackey to be imprisoned in the penitentiary one year and pay a fine of $2,000—the highest penalty known. The prisoner was defended by Col. J. H. Rion, of Winnsboro. It is understood that civil proceedings will at once be commenced against the Treasurer's bondsmen for the amount of the defalcation—about $18,000. There was intense excitement in Winnsboro over the matter. There are several other Treasurers who, it is expected, will be brought to time.

From the May 14, 1874 issue of the Anderson Intelligencer

Convicted and Sentenced

H. A. Smith, the defaulting County Treasurer of Fairfield, was tried in Winnsboro before Judge Mackey last week. It will be remembered that Smith was arrested on the 30th of March, for an alleged defalcation of $18,000. The charge against him was malfeasance in office, and the grand jury promptly returned a true bill. The prisoner was ably represented by Col. J. H. Rion, and Attorney General Samuel W. Melton conducted the prosecution with accustomed vigor and earnestness. The display of their legal efforts was confined to a preliminary motion for continuance on behalf of the prisoner, which resulted in favor of the prosecution, and the prisoner was put upon trial, when he plead guilty to the charge in the indictment. This ended the case, except the sentence, which Judge Mackey impressively delivered and imposed the highest penalty for the crime, namely, one year in the Penitentiary and a fine of $2,000. The trial occasioned much excitement in Winnsboro, and the result has doubtless put other derelict officials throughout the State to pondering seriously upon the coming Nemesis. It is understood that civil proceedings will at once begin against Treasurer Smith's bondsmen for the full amount of his defalcation. This work ought to be completed before the session of the Legislature, lest that generous body might relieve the unfortunate bondsmen from all liability, as in the case of Treasurer Allen, of Greenville, who was convicted and sentenced for the same offence last year. Gov. Moses pardoned Allen, too, and we may look for an exercise of clemency towards Smith, as the Governor is singularly mindful of the tender feelings of derelict officials. "A fellow feelings makes one wondrous kind." Moses has lost the bulk of his followers and admirers, and he must perforce recruit among the convicts.

Since writing the above, we observe that the sentence of Smith has been commuted by the Governor to imprisonment in jail for one year. The Penitentiary cells are carefully avoided for his friends. Let us hope they will be thrown wide open one day for "the chief criminal of the State," as Judge Mackey has aptly termed the miserable wretch now disgracing the Executive Chair of South Carolina.

RESEARCH BEGINS AT HOME

Your genealogical research begins at home. Don't wait to interview older relatives; interview them now while there is time to visit. Talk with relatives about family history, stories, anything they would like to share. Write down what they tell you and keep their versions separately. Always note who you spoke with, the date (include as many dates as they remember or approximate dates) and always when and where you were. Your family history is a treasure to be enjoyed by many. Below are some questions you may ask them:

- What is your full name? Why did your parents select this name for you? Did you have a nickname?
- When and where were you born?
- How did your family come to live there?
- Were there other family members in the area? Who?
- Were there any special items in the house that you remember?
- What was your favorite thing to do for fun (movies, beach, etc.)?
- Do you remember any fads from your youth? Popular hairstyles? Clothes?
- Who were your childhood heroes?
- What was your religion growing up? What church, if any, did you attend?
- Were you ever mentioned in a newspaper?
- Who were your friends when you were growing up?
- What world events had the most impact on you while you were growing up? Did any of them personally affect your family?
- Describe a typical family dinner. Did you all eat together as a family? Who did the cooking? What were your favorite foods?
- How were holidays (birthdays, Christmas, etc.) celebrated in your family? Did your family have special traditions?
- How is the world today different from what it was like when you were a child?
- Who was the oldest relative you remember as a child? What do you remember about them?

Fairfield Genealogical Society 3rd Quarter Newsletter 2014

- What do you know about your family surname?
 - What stories have come down to you about your parents? Grandparents? More distant ancestors?
 - Are there any stories about famous or infamous relatives in your family?
 - Are there any special heirlooms, photos, bibles or other memorabilia that have been passed down in your family?
 - Will you show me some of your old family documents or artifacts? Do you have things like family Bibles that might have names and birth dates in them?
 - Is or was anyone in the family interested in family history? Do you have any genealogical forms (family trees, pedigree charts, family group records) about your family?
 - What was the full name of your spouse? Siblings? Parents?
 - What memories can you share about your father? Mother? Siblings?
 - When and how did you meet your spouse? What did you do on dates?
 - Where and when did you get married?
 - How would you describe your spouse? What do (did) you admire most about them?
 - What was your profession and how did you choose it?
 - Of all the things you learned from your parents, which do you feel was the most valuable?
 - What accomplishments were you the most proud of?
 - What is the one thing you most want people to remember about you?
 - Did you have a best friend? What was their name, why were you best friends, did you both ever get into trouble?
 - Old photographs – are they identified?
 - Did you think your parents and grandparents were old fashioned? When did you realize they were interesting?
 - How did the era you grew up in influence the way you lived your life or the values you have today?
 - If you could tell your children and grandchildren one important story about the family, who is the main character, where does it take place and what happens? Why did you choose that story and person?
 - Where did the family vacation and why?
 - How did your grandparents meet?
 - Looking back, are there questions you wish you would have asked your parents or grandparents about their lives? If you asked those questions, what were their answers?

The last one could also be used to coax a hesitate relative to share stories. You can gently tell them that whatever they wish they had known about the family are also things we want to know – and they are the only ones who can tell us.

Their personal information and history is invaluable to the family. Even if they had brothers and sisters – all experience the family differently.
