Prominent Physician
Dies In Columbia

Dr. Ernest Cooper, Brother of Mrs. Moultrie Douglas of Winnsboro and Mrs. Norman H. Palmer of Ridgeway, Passes Saturday.

(The State)

Dr. Ernest Cooper, 62, of 824 Abelia road, Columbia, retired superintendent of the South Carolina sanatorium, State Park, died at 8:30 Saturday morning at the Columbia hospital, where he had been a patient since April 16.

Funeral services were conducted at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the chapel at the sanatorium by the Rev. James W. Jackson, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of which Doctor Cooper was a member, assisted by the Rev. R. A. Lapsley, D. D., of Roanoke, Va., former pastor of the First Presbyterian church here. Interment was in Elmwood cemetery.

South Carolina sanatorium stands as a magnificent monument to the ability, loyalty and enthusiasm of Doctor Cooper. He became its first superintendent in 1915 and served continuously as head of the institution from that time until illness forced his retirement early this year.

When Doctor Cooper became superintendent, the sanatorium, founded by an act of the legislature of 1914, had 16 beds in an open pavilion. It now has a capacity of 500 patients. It has fine buildings, adequate and modern equipment and a full staff of highly trained physicians and nurses.

Upon his retirement to an advisory capacity at the sanatorium in February, Dr. F. M. Routh, chairman of the executive committee of the state board of health, said, "Doctor Cooper has been a remarkably good superintendent, business man and executive. He has been partly responsible for all improvements made in the institution for the care of tuberculosis patients of South Carolina."

Doctor Cooper was considered an expert on tuberculosis and its treatment.

Doctor Cooper was born January 20, 1877, in the historic Steele Creek community of Mecklenburg county, near Charlotte, the son of Charles C. Cooper and Theodosia Kendrick Cooper. He received his preparatory education in public schools of Charlotte, living there until his family moved to Columbia in 1895.

He matriculated at Clemson college, but a railway accident necessitating his discontinuance of military training caused him to withdraw. He then entered the University of South Carolina, from which he was graduated in 1900.

After doing post-graduate work at the university he became principal of Presbyterian high school (which no longer exists) in Columbia. He held this position five years, then resigned to study medicine at Johns Hopkins Medical school at Baltimore. After his graduation there with the degree of doctor of medicine in the class of 1910 he served his internship at Mount Wilson Children's hospital at Baltimore, and also did post-graduate work at Johns Hopkins.

Upon his return to Columbia he took up the general practice of medicine and for two years was pathologist at the State hospital. In 1915 he accepted his appointment to the superintendency of the state sanatorium, and two brothers, Kendrick Cooper of Raleigh, N. C., and W. C. Cooper of St. Matthews.

A. Stewart, Rocky Mount, N. C.

Active pallbearers were: Lloyd Weed, Carnell Weed, Paul Boon, Willie Robinson, Wesley Braswell, Robert Gaines and Jack Robinson.

Honorary pallbearers: Grady Strange, Charlie Brooks, Dr. John Douglas, Dr. Samuel Lindsay, John W. Cathcart, Jesse Robinson, H. S. Carroll, W. K. Turner, Frank Branham, G. H. Lokey, Dan Clark and Carl Lathan.

S. F. CASTLES
DIES AT HOME

Prominent Fairfield County Farmer Passes Friday After Illness of 6 Months.

Samuel Franklin Castles, 75, prosperous farmer of the Greenbrier section of Fairfield county, died at his home Friday night, August 11th, after an illness of six months. 1939

Funeral services conducted by his pastor, Rev. H. Floyd Surles, assisted by Rev. A. B. Kennedy of Columbia, were held at the home Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Interment was in the Greenbrier cemetery.

Mr. Castles, the son of Henry Castles and Tirza Russell Castles, was born June 25, 1864. In 1890 he married Miss Leila Lee Lyles of Fairfield county, who survives him. Five sons, Herbert Lee Castles, Rufus Arledge Castles, Henry Hoyt Castles, Marion Sumter Castles, all of Fairfield, and Ernest Benjamin Castles, of Anderson; two daughters, Mrs. J. D. Lyles, of Winnsboro, and Mrs. M. F. Stewart, of Anderson; one sister, Mrs. J. B. Castles, of Fairfield, and 31 grandchildren also survive.

Active pall bearers were eight of his grandchildren: Sam, Henry, William, Joe, Rufus, Jr., Lindsay, James Castles and Carl Lyles.

Honorary pall bearers: Roy Lewis, W. F. Broom, G. U. Robinson, W. Hamp Lewis, E. F. McKeown, W. R. Ashford, T. C. Camak, W. M. Estes, T. W. Ruff, Dan Heyward, Ray Brooks, A. M. Blair, H. W. Ligon, W. E. Stewart, Bob Beckham, Dave Dove, M. R. Robertson, W. M. Ameen, J. W. Cathcart, C. A. Robinson, Dr. John C. Buchanan, Sr., Dr. John C. Buchanan, Jr., Dr. Samuel Lindsay, Ernest Gladden, E. P. Blair, J. H. Gibson, T. W. Lewis, E. K. Rabb, A. W. Brice, S. R. McMaster, A. M. Owens, E. L. Stevenson, J. H. Aiken, Roy Robinson and U. G. DesPortes.

Mr. Castles was among the last of those "rugged individualists" of the old school who took literally the Biblical injunction that man "must earn his bread by the sweat of his brow"—and in that way only. Certainly, he was one of the first to criticize the government's relief and farm programs openly and he did it at a time when the administration was most popular. Today many other Americans are of the same opinion, but, right or wrong, Mr. Castles said it first and in the public press.

A picturesque figure in the life of Fairfield county has gone.

Mrs. Alice Traylor
Carter 11/39

Funeral services for Mrs. Alice Traylor Carter, aged 78, were conducted at three o'clock Sunday afternoon at Beaver Creek Baptist church by Rev. G. W. Gurley and interment was in the church cemetery.

Mrs. Carter had been in failing health for several years and died Saturday morning at the home of her son, C. M. Traylor, with whom she had made her home since the death of her second husband, Robert Carter, several years ago. Her first husband, Henry Traylor, preceded her to the grave about twenty-five years ago. She married Robert Carter of the Feasterville community about ten years ago.

Surviving are five children by Tom Traylor, Mrs. Isabel Stevenson and Mrs. Joe Stewart, all of Shelton and Mrs. George Wood of Abbeville. Twelve grandchildren also survive.

Active pallbearers were Charlie Beam, James Goodlet, Cecil Goodman, Melvin Feaster, Cleveland Feaster and James Hood.

Miss Betty Brown
Of Barnwell Dies 12/1939

Funeral services were held in the Barnwell Episcopal church on Sunday for Miss Betty Brown, 17, who was killed in a train-car crash in Denmark Friday night. The final rites were conducted by the Rev. Theodore Porter Ball, rector of the Barnwell Episcopal church, with interment following in the adjoining cemetery.

Miss Brown was the youngest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Solomon V. Brown, of Barnwell, and was a member of the senior class of the local high school. She was a member of the Barnwell Episcopal church, and took an active part in the church and Sunday school work, and in the school work.

Miss Brown met almost instant death when the car in which she was riding with Roscoe Still, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Still, of Barnwell, was struck by a Seaboard Air Line crack New York to Florida train, the Silver Meteor. The accident occurred at the crossing of the railroad and the highway to Denmark from Barnwell. Miss Brown was thrown clear of the car and died from a skull fracture. Young Still was rushed to the Tri-County hospital in Orangeburg, suffering from serious injuries.

Surviving are her parents; one sister, Miss Marjorie Brown, a student at the University of South Carolina; her maternal grandfather, R. C. Stevenson, of Winnsboro; her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Brown, Sr., of Barnwell, and several uncles and aunts.

Mr. R. C. Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stevenson, Misses Nelle, Hermoine and Peggy Stevenson and Max Stevenson attended the funeral services Sunday.

A. C. CAMPBELL
DIES AT HOME
NEAR RIDGEWAY

Funeral Services For Son Of Late Dr. John W. Campbell, Native Of Winnsboro, Held At Aimwell Church.

On Friday, Feb. 24th, Archie C. Campbell, 63, after a lingering illness of several months, died at the old Campbell home near Ridgeway. Funeral services were held at the residence at noon on Saturday, conducted by the Rev. B. H. Franklin, pastor of Aimwell Presbyterian Church.

The son of Dr. John W. Campbell and his wife, Sarah Williamson, he was born and reared near Ridgeway. His father, Dr. Campbell, was a native of Winnsboro, having been born in the home built by his father in the early part of the 19th century—the home, now occupied by Mrs. Wilford. Shortly after his graduation and marriage, he moved to Ridgeway, building his home and practicing his profession. He was the beloved family physician of the oldest settlers of Ridgeway. Here he reared a family of eight children, Archie, the youngest.

The Campbells have always been closely identified with old Aimwell Church.

Dr. Campbell was ordained Elder in 1866 and held the office until his death in 1894. Archie was installed deacon in September 1916, serving in this capacity until his death. For years he was Superintendent of the Sunday School. A man of gentle, generous character, a lover of children, a good friend, a devoted son—he will be missed.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Weddington, of Texas, and Mrs. Sallie Sloan, of Davidson, N. C.; several nephews and nieces.
