

J. H. Feaster Dies at Home Saturday

Princeton, Ark. Interment in historic Princeton cemetery concluded the services held Tuesday afternoon at the Presbyterian church in Princeton for Jacob Henry Feaster, member of one of Dallas county's oldest and most prominent families, who had been an outstanding educator for almost fifty years. Rev. James G. Spencer, pastor of the Fordyce Presbyterian church, was in charge of the service.

Mr. Feaster died at the family home Saturday, ten days before his 78th birthday. He was born in Fairfield county South Carolina, in January of 1866, the son of David Roe and Virginia Rawls Feaster. In 1887 he was graduated from Peabody College, Nashville, Tennessee, and taught his first school the following year at the Feasterville school house in Fairfield county, South Carolina.

In 1888 he moved to Dallas county, Arkansas, and taught for one year in the Princeton schools. Then he responded to a call for war workers in Washington, D. C., in 1890, and spent twelve years as a clerk in the war department there. He returned to Dallas county in 1903, and from then until his retirement in 1935 taught school in Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas. He received his Master of Arts degree from Louisiana State University.

Mr. Feaster's hobbies were fruit culture and horticulture, to which he devoted much of his time. He was a member of the Presbyterian church at Princeton and was regarded by everyone who knew him as a capable and conscientious worker.

Surviving Mr. Feaster are three sisters, five brothers, one step-sister and four step-brothers. The sisters are Mrs. Preston F. Coleman of Ramsay community, Mrs. C. C. Cox of Carthage, Mrs. A. S. Mann of Princeton, and Miss Sue Feaster, teacher in Fordyce High School. The brothers are Roger W. Feaster of Kansas City, Missouri, David P. Feaster of Ellsville, James P. Feaster and V. Clayton Feaster of Princeton, and Charles M. Feaster of this city. Step-sisters and brothers are Mrs. M. E. Parham, P. E. Coleman, F. P. Coleman, and J. D. Coleman of Dallas county and H. J. Coleman of Ozark. A large number of nieces and nephews also survive.

V. O. Hambright Passes at York

Victor Quinn Hambright died Saturday, April 23, at his home in York, of a heart attack. The son of J. B. and the late Mrs. Elizabeth McCarter Hambright of Clover, he was born June 27, 1896. He was married Oct. 18, 1914 to Miss Edna James Robinson of Rock Hill, who is a sister of Mrs. Addie Robinson Williford of Winnsboro.

Besides his widow, two children, five brothers and four sisters survive.

Mr. Hambright was vice president and cashier of the bank of York, a member of the First Presbyterian church, a member of the Rotary club and was the first president of the York Chamber of Commerce. He organized the National Bank of Clover and also the Bank of York and served one term as collector of internal revenue for the State of South Carolina.

Funeral services were conducted at York Monday, April 24th.

Mrs. A. B. Heins Dies In Ridgeway Beloved Woman Passes June 29th After Illness Of Several Years.

The entire community was saddened by the death of Mrs. Arthur Heins, which occurred on June 29th, after an illness of several years.

Services were held at the home, conducted by the Rev. M. E. Derrick of Woodruff, an old friend and pastor, assisted by the Rev. R. M. Tucker. At their conclusion, the procession moved on to Aimwell cemetery, where surrounded by her family, largely represented, numerous friends and acquaintances, she was laid to rest beneath a mound of exquisite floral offerings.

The pall bearers were Verlin E. Barnette, W. H. Kennedy, R. C. Thomas, W. G. Whitlock, John Gettys and Kirkland Finley.

Mrs. Heins is survived by her husband, A. B. Heins; one son, Arthur B. Heins, Jr.; one daughter, Marion Heins; one granddaughter, Emma M. Heins, all of Ridgeway; three sisters, Mrs. Thomas Nelson and Mrs. Joseph Parker of Ridgeway, and Mrs. Arthur McCarrell of Columbia; one brother, Robert Roseborough of Atlanta. Several nephews and nieces also survive.

Mrs. Heins, the former Eloise Roseborough, was the youngest daughter of the late Edward K. Roseborough and his wife, Arabella Walker, of Denmark, Bamberg county. The Roseboroughs were connected with the oldest families of Denmark. The family moved to Ridgeway in 1902. Mrs. Heins received her early education in the (Augusta, Georgia) schools.

On January 19, 1916, she was married to Arthur Heins of Ridgeway, who was connected with the Charles P. Wray and Company of this town.

Mrs. Heins, a woman of bright and lovely disposition, carried gladness to many homes. By her helpful kindness and unselfishness, she made warm friends in every walk of life. Truly, "to live in hearts we leave behind is not to die."

Life behind, we live in trust, For the resurrection day.

Father in Thy gracious keeping Leave we now Thy servant sleeping.

M. B. Jennings Dies Suddenly In Jacksonville

Marion Boyd Jennings, well known Jacksonville attorney, died suddenly at 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning at his home 2116 Riverside Avenue of a heart attack. He was 56 years old.

Mr. Jennings is survived by his widow, Mrs. Irma Lanier Jennings; one daughter, Mrs. W. Wilson Taylor of Arlington, Va.; a grand-daughter, Miss Jean Lanier Taylor of Arlington; two sisters, Mrs. M. E. Curlee of Winnsboro, and Mrs. J. Bailey Gordon of Rome, Ga., and a number of nieces, nephews and other relatives residing in Florida and South Carolina.

Funeral services were held at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at Mrs. William C. Cooper's chapel 17 West Ashley Street. The Rev. Albert J. Kissling, pastor of the Riverside Presbyterian Church officiated.

Mr. Jennings was born at Winnsboro, and moved to Florida a number of years ago. He went to Jacksonville from Sarasota 35 years ago to practice law. He was a member of the Jacksonville, Florida and American Bar Associations.

He was the son of the late Robert H. Jennings and Mrs. Nancy Lenora Jennings of Columbia, S. C., and a brother of the late Dr. Charles L. Jennings of this city. Mr. Jennings' father was at one time treasurer of the State of South Carolina.

Some years ago Mr. Jennings represented Duval County in the Florida House of Representatives.

He was a graduate of the University of South Carolina at Columbia, and was a member of the Pi Kappa Phi fraternity.

Mr. and Mrs. Bosie Rivers and Miss Lola Jennings attended the funeral.

A Tribute to Mrs. John Peay Jones

(Who died in Ridgeway, Nov. 5th, 1944)

Mrs. Jones was the former Mary Lunsford Harrison, daughter of John Douglas Harrison and his wife, Sarah Elizabeth Dixon Harrison. Born in 1871 in Longtown where most of her life was spent, she was married to the late John Peay Jones on Oct. 30, 1889, and thus were two of the old Fairfield county families united. In the fall of 1936, the family moved to Ridgeway, where she resided until her death.

Mrs. Jones was a woman of innate dignity, kindness, courtesy and refinement—truly a lady of the Old South, beloved by every one who knew her. She had friends in every walk of life.

As the shadows fell in the late summer evenings, the long, wide piazza was the gathering place for "our street" and others. The little children ran in and out laughing and singing. Always cheerful and uncomplaining, Mrs. Jones has not gone for she will live forever in the hearts of her friends.

"Earth to earth, dust to dust, Calmly now the words we say. Life behind, we wait in trust For the resurrection day. Father in Thy gracious keeping, Leave we now Thy servant sleeping."

Brooklyn, N. Y. 25, 1944

Editor Winnsboro News and Herald,

Dear Sir:-

Enclosed find a notice of death of Mrs. Lauderdale, which I thought might be of interest to the Editor.

I was born in Winnsboro, and lived there many years, was a neighbor of the Laurdadales and knew them very well.

Extend holiday greetings to the good folks of Winnsboro, particularly to Arthur Owens and Charlie Timms, my old school pals.

Wishing you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Sincerely yours, Louis Sugenheimer, 237 A Brooklyn Ave. Brooklyn N. Y.

MRS LAUDERDALE, BANKER'S WIDOW

Funeral services for Mrs. Carrie V. Lauderdale of 229 Clermont Ave., who died Friday night at the Peck Memorial Hospital will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the Fairchild Chapel, 86 Lefferts Place. Burial will be in Green-Wood cemetery.

Mrs. Lauderdale was the widow of Thomas W. Lauderdale, who for 30 years was vice president of the Winnsboro National Bank, Winnsboro, S. C., and later a well-known layman of the Plymouth and Central Congregational Churches here. He died in 1929.

Like her husband, Mrs. Lauderdale was interested in the church life of the borough. For a number of years she was a member of the Central Congregational church and later became a member of the Cadman Congregational church.

So far as is known, she leaves no immediate relatives. (From Brooklyn Eagle—N. Y.)

Mrs. P. F. Mann Dies At Bethel

Mrs. Puett F. Mann, 85, widow of Samuel Lawrence Mann, died at her home in the Bethel community late Tuesday. One of the oldest residents of this section, she was the daughter of Mary Ann and Gabriel Friday.

She was affectionately known over the county as "Aunt Puett" and was a lovable and hospitable person. Her home was a gathering place for both young and old and she leaves a host of friends. She was a devoted member of the Bethel Methodist church.

Mrs. Mann is survived by six sons, Robert F. Mann, Edward D. Mann, J. Floyd Mann, Leon S. Mann, and L. M. Mann, all of Winnsboro; Kinard S. Mann, of Columbia; nine grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral services, conducted by her pastor, the Rev. R. L. Hall, assisted by the Rev. T. F. Reid and the Rev. T. A. Inabinet, were held from the Bethel Methodist church Wednesday afternoon. Active pall bearers were Fred Leitner, S. O. Taylor, Archie L. Taylor, Burley Shealey, Holey L. Perry and Joe Brooks.

Service for T. W.

Mann Held Sunday

Funeral services for Thomas Watt Mann, 66, were held from the Bethel Methodist church in lower Fairfield county on Sunday afternoon at four o'clock, conducted by the pastor the Rev. R. L. Hall, assisted by the Rev. T. A. Inabinet and the Rev. T. F. Reid, former pastor. Interment was in the church cemetery.

Mr. Mann, who died at the Columbia hospital Saturday, after a ten-day illness, was the son of the late Thomas Franklin Mann and Rebecca Watt Mann. He had been a life-long resident of the Bethel section where he was a progressive farmer and merchant.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Gussie Cauthen Mann; one daughter, Mrs. Fred Leitner; one son, Hugh H. Mann, all of the Bethel community, and one grandson, Hugh H. Mann, Jr., an aviation student at Waterville, Maine. Three brothers, Morse I. Mann and John W. Mann, both of Columbia, and Herbert B. Mann of Winnsboro, and a number of nieces and nephews, also survive. He was 67 without having lost his zest for life.

After the death of a loved brother several years ago he had occupied the place of elder brother to the four younger men who looked to him and depended on him for council and advice, keeping the ties of family affection intact in their lives.

Another outstanding tie was that between him and his only grandson. Their association together was like that of boyhood pals. It is well remembered when the young man went into service, how the voice of the grandfather faltered and broke as he prayed for "all service boys" at the church service that morning which was his unflinching custom.

One marvels, too, at the affection accorded him by the members of his Sunday School Class, as they met in session on the very day of his funeral, and the teacher as he paid tribute to their absent member, wept profusely.

We've built a shrine within our hearts. And stored our memories there. And through the years that come and go. We'll guard with greatest care. The many loving words he said. The deeds of kindness done, The hours we spent together, In joyous, wholesome fun, There'll be no sorrows in this shrine, Nor even much regret, For just the choice, happiest things. Are what we'll ne're forget.

ROBERT F. MANN

Last rites for Robert Friday Mann, who died at his home in Bethel, lower Fairfield county, were held Sunday at the Bethel Methodist church. Interment was in the church cemetery. 5/1944

Mr. Mann, the son of the late Lawrence and Mrs. Puett Friday Mann, was born and had spent a good portion of his 63 years in the Bethel section where he was a member of the Methodist church.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Eva McFadden Mann; three daughters, Mrs. Peyton C. Hartley, Mrs. Fred Craft and Miss Peggy Mann, all of Columbia; one son, Cpl. Lawrence Randolph Mann of the U. S. Army, stationed at Camp Atterbury, Ind.; and five brothers, Edward D., Floyd J., Leon S., Lonnie M., all of Winnsboro, and Kinard S. Mann of Columbia, and one grandson, Fred C. Craft, Jr.
