A Joyous Occasion. 1879
On Wednesday morning Mr. Jacob H. Kaufman, of Chester, was married to Miss Deborah Wolfe, of Winnsboro, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. David Levy of Congregation Beth Elohim of Charleston. At the appointed hour a large number of wedding guests had assembled by invitation at the residence of Mr. S. Wolfe, the father of the bride. The ceremony was impressive and beautiful. Then followed the greetings and congratulations of friends and relatives..after a period of social intercourse and enjoyment the guests partook of a delicious collation, the table groaning with sweetmeats and fruits, while a hughe silver punch bowl filled to the brim with that exhilarating beverage, and flanked by decanters of wines, added to the merriment of the occasion.. The presents to the bride were many and very handsome, but we cannot enumerate them all. They consisted of silver tea sets, cake and fruit dishes, card cases, forks, spoons, besides other articles.
