Amidon-Hilton 8/19/40

Friday evening at eight o'clock, St. John's Episcopal church was the scene of the impressive marriage ceremony of Miss Edith Amidon, daughter of Mrs. Alfred E. Jury, and Robert Eldridge Hilton of Columbia and Winstboro.

The church for the occasion was tastefully decorated with Southern smilax and airy ferns; Easter lilies filled the vases on the altar and white tapers lighted altar and chancel.

The attending groomsmen-ushers entered in couples and were followed by the maids, who entered singly. The groomsmen were Sidney Kelly and Thomas Murphy of this place, Anthony Velonis, of New York City and William Autrey Jr., of Columbia.

The bridesmaids were Misses Sarah DesPortes, Helen Johnson and Frances Davis, all of Winstboro, and Miss Elizabeth Hilton, the bridegroom's sister, of Columbia. They wore beautiful dresses of rose starched chiffon and tiaras of rose velvet flowers. They carried fanshaped bouquets of gladioli shading in color from rose to pale pink.

Preceding the bride was her sister, Mrs. Anthony Velonis of New York, who was matron of honor. She was strikingly gowned in aquamarine chiffon with matching tiara; she carried a fan bouquet of all rose gladioli.

The bride was a picture of typical, petite loveliness. Her gown of white satin was made with shirred bodice, with sweetheart neckline and was long sleeved. The skirt was full, made with very long, circular train. She wore a veil of illusion trimmed with orange blossoms, and carried a white satin-covered prayer book showered with white orchids.

The groom was attended by Mr. Thomas Sprott of Winstboro as best man.

Miss Ernestine Sanders sang before the ceremony "Ave Maria" (Schubert) and "The Lord's Prayer" (Malotte); she was accompanied by Miss Nelle McMaster, who played the wedding marches also.

Rev. Charles Seymour, rector of St. John's, officiated.

Following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Jury entertained at a beautiful reception at their hospitable home on High street.
