Uldrick-McKeown Vows Are Solemnized

Characterized by simple dignity and charm, and centering wide interest in South Carolina and Georgia was the wedding of Miss Emmie McKeown and George E. Uldrick which took place at five o'clock, June 10, in historic New Hope Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church at Blackstock.

Dr. W. A. Kennedy, pastor of the bride, performed the double-ring ceremony.

The church was artistically decorated. Tall white cathedral candles burned in candelabra against a background of magnolias, ivy and fern interspersed with baskets of Admiral Byrd daisies. The family pews were marked with wide satin ribbons.

Wedding music was presented by Mrs. J. Watt Weir, pianist and violinist, and Mrs. Clarence C. Brown, vocalist and pianist, before the ceremony. Schubert's Serenade was played on the piano and Meditation from "Thais" by Massenet on the violin, then a vocal, "Through the Years," by Youmans. The traditional Lohengrin by Wagner, was used as the processional. As a benediction, "O Perfect Love," by Barnby, was sung. Mendelssohn's Wedding march was used for the recessional.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white embroidered organdy designed with a yoke of marquisette, fitted bodice fastened with buttons extending below the waist-line and full ankle length skirt scalloped around the bottom. She wore matching mitts. Her fingertip French illusion veil fell from a halo of rose point lace. She carried a white prayer book topped by a white orchid showered with satin ribbon.

Attending the bride were her sisters, wearing identical dresses of nylon net, Mrs. Harry M. Miller in aqua net and Mrs. Roy Bennett in pink fashioned with a full skirt, embroidered bolera, matching mitts, head dresses and pumps. They carried old-fashioned nosegays.

The bridegroom had as his best man Dallas May of Greenwood, S. C. John W. McKeown, brother of the bride, and Jack Brawley of Chester were groomsmen. Harry M. Miller of Chester and Master Sgt. Roy Bennett of Columbia, brothers-in-law of the bride, served as ushers.

The bride's mother wore an Alice blue crepe dress with a shoulder corsage of pink rosebuds. The mother of the bridegroom wore navy crepe with a yellow rose corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony the bride and groom received informally in the vestibule of the church.

Later in the evening the couple left for a wedding trip to the mountains of North Carolina and Tennessee. The bride wore for traveling an aqua linen suit with white accessories and the orchid taken from her prayer book.

Mr. Uldrick is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. McKeown of Blackstock. She graduated from Blackstock High School and for the last several years has been Dental assistant to Dr. Conrad Nichols.

Mr. Uldrick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Uldrick of Donalds, S. C. He is a B. A. graduate in Textile manufacturing of Clemson College, a member of Phi-Psi fraternity and Abbeville-Clemson Club, and now holds a position with the United Merchants Manufacturing Co., in Elberton, Ga.

The couple was attended by Chief Petty Officer, Charles Charlton, Jr., and Mrs. Bess J. Hall of Needham Heights, Mass.

McKinnon- Yarborough

Miss Janie Cathrine McKinnon became the bride of Howard Swygert Yarborough Thursday afternoon at a half after 5 o'clock in the Lebanon Presbyterian church. The Rev. Charles H. Harris, assisted by the Rev. Robert H. McKinnon, uncle of the bride, performed the ceremony.

Palms, ferns, floor baskets of white chrysanthemums and cathedral tapers were effectively used in the decorations.

A program of wedding music was given by Mrs. William Sprott, pianist, George Rion and Miss Ernestine Sanders, vocalists.

James D. Reynolds, of Columbia, Grady Turner, of Winnsboro, Ben Yarborough and Hall Yarborough, of Jenkinsville, were the usher-groomsmen.

Bridesmaids were the Misses Margaret Brown of Columbia, Virginia Bowen, of Ridgeway, Lottie Yarborough and Kate Yarborough of Jenkinsville. They wore robin's egg blue taffeta gowns with bouffant corded skirts finished with dubonnet velvet bows, and they also wore small taffeta hats to match their dresses. They carried arm bouquets of bronze chrysanthemums.

Miss Mary Rawlinson, maid of honor, wore dubonnet taffeta made like the bridesmaids' gowns, a matching hat, and she carried deep orchid chrysanthemums.

The flower girls were Ann Turner, of Winnsboro, and Frances McKinnon of Columbia. Their dresses were of robin's egg blue taffeta with dubonnet velvet sashes. They carried silver baskets of rose petals and wore clusters of white rosebuds in their hair.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, the Rev. Robert H. McKinnon, of St. George. She wore a lovely wedding gown of white satin featuring sleeves ending in points over her hands, a softly shirred bodice and a very full skirt graduating into a long train at the back. Her veil of bridal illusion fell from a coronet of white satin rosebuds, and she carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses showered with lilies of the valley. Her only ornament was a gold brooch, a family heirloom.

Henry Yarborough was his brother's best man.

Mrs. Laurence Carrigan McKinnon, mother of the bride, wore a dress of rust velvet and a corsage of talisman roses.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Yarborough left for a wedding trip. For traveling the bride wore a costume suit of blue wool trimmed with red fox and a shoulder corsage of rosebuds.

Mrs. Yarborough is the daughter of Mrs. Isabelle Turner McKinnon and the late Laurence C. McKinnon. Mr. Yarborough is the son of J. Foster Yarborough, of Jenkinsville, and the late Mrs. Yarborough. He was graduated from Furman university, and he is now engaged in the mercantile business in Jenkinsville.

The lovely bride wore a lime green smart silk dress with white accessories and a corsage of white rosebuds.

After the wedding the bride and groom left for Providence, R. I. on a short wedding trip. They will reside at 74 Prospect St., East Greenwich, R. I.

Mrs. Matthews is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Stevenson McKeown of Blackstock. She has held the position of bookkeeper for J. R. Hamrick and Sons at Chester for several years prior to her marriage.
