Be-Comes

Bride of Mr. McMaster

Mrs. Robert Gooding McMaster, Jr.

Frederic Handel. The processional was "Trumpet Voluntary" by Henry Purcell, and for the recessional "Hymn to Joy" from the Ninth Symphony by Ludwig von Beethoven was played.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original wedding gown of imported candlelight silk peau and peau d'ange lace. The fitted lace bodice featured an English net yoke effect with high neckline and long scalloped lace sleeves. The A-line silk peau skirt was highlighted with a wide border of lace, enhanced with fullness in the back ending in a graceful chapel train. She wore a lace Camelot headpiece with full length mantilla of silk illusion bordered with peau d'ange lace. Small motifs of the lace were scattered over the veil. She carried a cascade of white roses with baby's breath, baker's fern, and ivy.

Miss Catherine Lane Cooper of Chapel Hill, N. C., was the bride's maid of honor. She wore a dress of yellow floral organza. It featured a wide bertha collar over an empire waist which was encircled by a band of turquoise velvet. Soft, gathered fullness enhanced the back which ended in a slight sweep train. She carried a bouquet of yellow daisies.

Bridesmaids were Miss Gwen Cairns Holland and Miss Elizabeth Christine Young, both of Greensboro orchid corsage.

The bridegroom's mother wore a yellow silk chiffon dress with long full sleeves. Her corsage was of white phalaenopsis orchids.

Mrs. John Clavin Shockley, maternal grandmother of the bride, wore a seafoam silk jersey dress trimmed with silver and white beading.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the Fairfield Country Club.

For her going-away outfit the bride chose a white polyester suit with a red flowered blouse. She wore a red and gold glamellia corsage and used red accessories.

Following their wedding trip the couple will be at home on Route 1, Newberry Road, Winnsboro.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were from Columbia, Lancaster, Clemson, Rock Hill, Chester, Pelzer, Charleston, and Union, S. C.; Atlanta, Ga.; Old Hickory, Tenn.; Charlotte, Reidsville, Tarboro, and Durham, N. C.; Martinsville, Charlottesville, Scottsville, and Broad Run, Va.; and Overland Park, Kansas.
