Miss Susan Olivia Sellers Becomes Bride of Mr. Phillips on August 6th

MRS. HARMON LAMON PHILLIPS

simplicity and beauty at the Dawson, Georgia Presbyterian Church Sunday afternoon, August 6, Miss Susan Olivia Sellers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William O. Sellers, became the bride of Harmon Lamon Phillips, son of the Reverend and Mrs. H. E. Phillips, Jr., of Bronwood. The Rev. Mr. Phillips, pastor of the Bronwood Baptist Church, and father of the groom, performed the ceremony before a gathering of friends and relatives.

The church was simply but effectively decorated with a massive floor basket arrangement of white chrysanthemums, gladioli and pompons. Lighted white tapers in two seven-branched candelabra against a background of green velvet formed the setting for the bridal party.

Miss Susan Johnson of Bronwood, organist, presented a program of nuptial music, and accompanied Mrs. Lavonne Speir of Bronwood, who sang "The Hawaiian Wedding Song" and at the close of the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer."

Marvin Frierson of Pelham and Dawson, served as best man, and ushers were Ernest Long, Richard Downer and Robert Hamlin, all of Dawson. Billy Sellers, brother of the bride, served as junior usher.

The bride's sisters were her only attendants. Miss Marsha Sellers; of Atlanta and Dawson, was maid of honor, and Mrs. Larry Massey of Athens served as bridesmaid. They wore empire styled gowns of maize chiffon made with V necklines and full bishop sleeves which were outlined with soft double ruffles of chiffon. Their Colonial nosegays of Dawson. deeper yellow daisy mums, blue gypsophilia and leather leaf fern matched the exquisite trim on the neckline and sleeves of their gowns.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a traditional gown of Chantilly lace and peau-de-soie featuring a high rise bodice of lace embroidered with seed pearls and sequins, and a high neckline. The long bishop sleeves were cuffed with lace and pearls and the long

In a ceremony characterized by flowing skirt was softly gathered to the bodice. Small self-covered buttons extended down the back. Her long veil of silk illusion was caught into a Camelot headpiece of peau-de-soie studded with pearls and re-embroidered medallions of lace and formed a cathedral length train. Her only ornament was a diamond pendant, a gift of the groom. She carried a cascade of feathered chrysanthemums and English ivy, centered with a yel-low throated orchid.

The bride wore a blue garter given to her by Miss Cindy Worsham of Atlanta, and in her shoe a sixpence, a gift of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Massey, Jr., and Edward

The mother of the bride wore a linen and lace sheath of mint green, matching accessories and a green cymbidium orchid. The groom's mother chose a dress of beige polyester and lace with matching accessories, and she wore a corsage of bronze orchids.

Mrs. D. R. Coleman, Jr., of Winnsboro, grandmother of the bride, wore a dress of blue linen and lace and her flowers were apricot carnations.

Following the ceremony, the parents of the bride entertained with a reception in the church social

For traveling, the bride wore a navy and white polyester dress with matching full length coat, navy accessories, and the orchid lifted from her bridal bouquet.

After a wedding trip to the mountains of Tennessee and Georgia, the couple will make their home in
